

London Reports Dawes-MacDonald Naval Agreement

London Paper In Late Edition
To Announce Conclusion Of Preliminary Sessions

FOUR PROPOSALS ARE PUT FORWARD

By HARRY R. FLOKY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
LONDON, Aug. 2.—The London Evening Standard in a late edition today will announce that Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and Premier Ramsay MacDonald have concluded preliminary negotiations looking to eventual naval disarmament.

The Standard declares that these representatives of the United States and British governments have reached a tentative agreement for a formula for naval disarmament.

Four proposals are put forward in the formula, according to the newspaper, based on the following proposals:

Firstly, present battleship building programmes of both countries shall be restricted.

Secondly, the size of battleships to be constructed in the future shall be decreased.

Thirdly, the life of battleships now in commission shall be prolonged, thus postponing replacements.

Fourthly, a declaration will be issued by each country concerned voicing its willingness to cease the building of submarines.

The evening standard says that these tentative proposals may now be communicated to the French, Italian and Japanese governments for their views.

It is expected that Premier MacDonald will make a public announcement in the near future, outlining the progress accomplished by the negotiations. This announcement may be made before the meeting of the League of Nations assembly, at Geneva, in September.

QUELL OUTBREAK AT LEAVENWORTH

A rush en masse toward the penitentiary walls, wielding knives, forks, clubs and any other weapons they could find.

Guards were quick to respond to the frenzied attack and fired a volley calculated to cow the rioters. The convicts, however, fought their way toward the wall and for approximately six hours engaged in fighting and howling and screaming that could be heard for blocks around the walls.

To the bedlam was added the hysterical din from the narcotics section, housing innumerable prisoners embittered by the denial of drugs in quantities they demanded. They fought, smashed windows and strove to batter down the walls.

Warden Thomas White withheld all information and said his report would be submitted to prison officials at Washington.

It was said, however, that no guards had been killed in the rioting.

been doing a prosperous trade but it appeared, others were attempting to "muscle in" on the racket.

Bomb Was Tossed.
So a "pinapple" gangland knows a bomb was thrown into Curran's place of business, blowing out the front of the building and hurling copper coils and barrels into the air and the street.

A little professional jealousy of rivals, Curran admitted today, probably was the cause of the move against him.

"I'm a progressive business man and I guess it was a case of business jealousy," Curran told police. "But I'm not going to quit. I'm going to stay in the game until I make enough to quit. I'm not ready to retire yet by a long shot."

"If I was to die the next minute, if I could truthfully say I knew the man who blew up my building, I'd go out into the street and grab him by the collar and turn him over to the cops. Just say for me that it was a case of business jealousy."

passing the far-famed British fortress of Gibraltar. It is impossible to estimate the dirigible's speed, and by the same token, her precise position over the ocean, as her progress depends largely upon the vagaries of the wind.

While she is capable of at least seventy miles an hour, adverse winds over Switzerland and France reduced her speed to forty, and, at times, even thirty miles an hour, fulfilling the predictions of Dr. Hugo Eckener, the airship's commander, that in all likelihood the first part would be the hardest and most trying portion of the entire journey.

However, if fifty miles an hour were taken as an average speed, which must be maintained if Dr. Eckener hopes to have his craft safely moored at the Lakehurst naval air station by Sunday morning, the Graf at 7

WITNESS RELATES HE SAW STRUGGLE NIGHT OF MURDER

were, they ceased struggling, Murray continued. "She had gone to my side and the car stood with her hands up, as if she were arranging her hair."

The girl was "fairly tall," about five feet, six or seven, and weighed about 140 pounds, Murray said.

The witness declared he did not pay much attention to the man. He seemed about the same size "although he was standing on lower ground."

Murray testified that he told his wife about the incident that night. On cross-examination, he denied he had told the police about the matter in order to break into the newspapers.

Paul Kumlau, a high school boy, who, with a companion, Milton Miller, went to the rifle range on June 14 to practice shooting, told of finding Miss Hix's body.

Discover Body
"I noticed an object in the weeds, and upon investigating found that it was the body of a woman, later identified as Miss Theora Hix," Kumlau testified.

"She was lying face down and her right hand clutched a bloody handkerchief. We hastened across the field and I found a farmer. I brought him back, asked him to guard the body, and then my companion and I drove into the city and notified the police."

The witness told how the police went to the scene and how the police photographer took pictures of the body.

Two photographs were introduced by the state as evidence. The witness was shown the pictures. Were the photographs true likenesses of the body as found by them? The witness replied "Yes, they were."

Tells of Discovery
Young Kumlau was excused and Ephraim Johnson, a 76-year-old farmer, was called to the stand. He corroborated Kumlau's testimony.

"I was plowing when I saw two young fellows running toward me," said Johnson. "They shouted that there was a woman's body lying back near the road. We went back there and I saw the body. She was lying face down."

"I told the two young fellows they better go notify the police. They did."

Snook Unmoved
Snook, reclining in an orange, black and green beach chair which had been provided for him because he is indisposed as a result of a spinal fluid operation, listened to the testimony without showing the slightest emotion.

The witness was saying:
"Her face was bruised and covered with dry blood and she was in bad shape," but the defendant continued to gaze at the ceiling as if he did not hear him.

The courtroom was again thronged to its capacity. Women and girls were bunched five deep around the walls and at the main entrance to the courtroom a group of more than fifty spectators were massed.

Strange Scene
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Before the eyes of the Snook jury is presented a courtroom scene so strange it is almost unbelievable—the spectacle of Dr. James Howard Snook, the iron-nerved defendant, lying nonchalantly in an orange, green and black canvas beach chair while the voice of attorneys boom forth the accusation that he deliberately, and with cold-blooded premeditation, did away with a beautiful young co-ed, Miss Theora Hix.

Lying there at ease, his long legs crossed comfortably and his eyes surveying the ceiling when they are not closed in contemplation, the former Ohio State University professor is a baffling study in human nature. What can he be thinking about? The days when he was the acknowledged best rapid fire pistol shot in the world? Or golf—a game he loves to play? Or some of the many of a writer on outdoor subjects, is he conjuring the plot of a new magazine story?

Surely this solemn, bald-headed man with the nose glasses and puckered mouth cannot be thinking about this trial. Why, he hardly notices the "murder implements" lying there on the prosecutor's table, ten feet away. The hammer he used to club Theora into insensibility, or the pen knife he employed to slit her throat "to end her suffering." He does so much as design a glance at the feminine apparel heaped on the table that caused others in the courtroom to shudder involuntarily.

None of these things does he pay any attention to. His "poker face" never changes expression as the name "Theora" resounds again and again throughout the courtroom.

The jury, eleven men and a woman, certainly must wonder as they looked down upon him from their seats. For the jurors have not been told why he has that summery-looking, comely beach chair. It was provided upon the insistence of the defense that the professor was feeling pretty badly as a result of a spinal fluid operation which he underwent last Saturday. If he sits erect, they say, he is subject to severe headaches but if he is allowed to recline and relax he feels all right. And how the doctor can relax! It's an art under these conditions.

BORAH PROPOSES GREAT BRITAIN SLASH CRUISERS

relations with Great Britain over the naval agreement.

There is, however, no undue optimism in Washington over the prospects of the Anglo-American cruiser differences being settled by anything so simple as proposed by the Idaho senator. The Dawes-MacDonald negotiations in London have amply demonstrated that, if nothing else.

The 18 modern cruisers possessed by the United States have a total tonnage of 155,000. To scrap down to the American figures would involve the junking of more than 200,000 tons of fighting craft by the British and those who believe that anything like that is to eventuate can be numbered on the fingers of an armistice wonder.

Gibson Plan Shunned
The British attitude concerning cruiser needs was set forth in the abortive Geneva conference when Hugh S. Gibson, chief of the American delegation, proposed a limit of from 250,000 to 300,000 tons each for cruisers. The British indignantly turned it down on the ground that the tonnage was insufficient to afford protection to the far-flung British trade routes and interests. And while the MacDonald government may be willing to go further than the Tory government of Stanley Baldwin, there is no one who expects that MacDonald can or will go as far as Borah suggested.

President Hoover himself doesn't believe the cruiser question can be settled by so simple a formula. In his recent letter to Paul V. McNutt, commander of the American Legion, who wrote that "our lost cruiser party can be regained only by continued cruiser building by America or extended cruiser scrapping by America or Great Britain, or a combination of these two," Mr. Hoover said:

"The actual problems before us are far more intricate and far more difficult than can be solved by the simple formula which you suggest."

Ships Are Rusting
Evidently Mr. Hoover spoke with full knowledge of what progress has been made in the conversations between Ambassador Dawes and Premier MacDonald.

The one likely avenue of escape from American building or British scrapping seems to be the taking into account of the surplus of American destroyers and submarines, now rusting at docks along both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard.

Britain has twice as much cruiser strength as the United States. The American navy possesses twice as much of British or submarine strength as the British navy. If the naval experts can work out a yardstick by which these varying degrees of naval strength can be more or less reconciled, an escape from extensive building by the United States and extensive scrapping by the British will be opened.

Short at Idea
There are American experts, however, who fairly snort at the idea of trying to measure rusty and decommissioned destroyers and submarines against British operating cruisers with their six-inch and eight-inch guns.

Time alone would rectify some of the cruiser disparity. For nearly two months of British or submarine force built during the war and reach retirement are in another 10 years. Unless they are replaced, ship for ship, Britain's cruiser strength undeniably will decline toward the American mark as time goes on.

In this fact the advocates of naval reduction see their greatest hopes.

Man Questioned
Amata was held for questioning, but police denied any belief that he had been connected with the shooting.

Allegheny county detectives expressed the opinion Bruno may have overstepped the boundaries of his bootlegging domain, and the execution was carried out according to the gangland code.

The Braddock district has been quiet since the last outbreak in the bootlegging feud two years ago, police said. Detectives had concluded that the matter had been settled.

But the killing of Bruno aroused the fear of reprisals and close watch was being kept today as the county and borough authorities began their investigations.

STAR LORE
VENUS BRIGHTEST WHEN SEEN AS A CRESCENT.
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.
When the planet Venus is in a position to be at its brightest it appears as a thin crescent as seen from the earth with a telescope. To the unaided eye Venus looks like a very brilliant star of magnitude-4. The crescent appearance not being detected. As it recedes from the earth it finally takes on a gibbous form (i. e., between half and full). Venus never shows as a fully illuminated planet as does Mars due to the fact that it has an orbit inside the earth's orbit. Very faint, obscure markings, impossible to reproduce in a drawing or photographs are frequently seen.

HOW STREET BEGGARS PROSPER

WE ARE a kind-hearted people, and as a result of this trait professional beggars continue to reap a harvest in nearly all of the cities of this country.

John D. Godfrey, of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, in an address the other day said that these mendicants levied a tribute of $125,000 daily on New Yorkers and visitors. We should say that the estimate was exceedingly conservative. Mr. Godfrey claims that there are between 6,000 and 7,000 of these professionals in the greater city, and that they successfully utilize a variety of tricks in extracting coins from tender-hearted people.

The most profitable spots are in the subway stations, particularly on Saturdays, when the pay envelope and the holiday spirit work in the interest of the beggars.

There are many handicapped persons in the world, but the most deserving, as a rule, are those who refrain from begging on the streets. From time to time the police try to eliminate the "shake-down" artists, but it is not an easy job. In the borough of Brooklyn the beggars have been reduced to about 200. All peddlers are not impostors. Many a good man is compelled to resort to that expedient in times of stress.

But it is a pity that the frauds should prosper while the deserving poor are so often overlooked.

SCHOOLS FOR CITY OFFICIALS

THE prophecy of the president of the New York State Mayor's conference comes true, this state will have established a precedent in the training of city officials and thus create a municipal efficiency that should be followed in every state in the land.

At the annual meeting of the New York State Mayors Conference, Mayor Frederick C. McLaughlin of White Plains, predicted that within five years there will be high schools and training courses for every variety of city official and that a state law may be enacted which will require such training courses as prerequisites to service.

The idea of this is not altogether new. In fact, there are many cities today where firemen and policemen are given the opportunity of obtaining special training and instruction along their specific lines. This is a fine, constructive move but why stop with just firemen and policemen.

New York state plans to go beyond this stage and plans are being worked over for schools for clerks and officers in the departments of charity, finance, civil service, water, purchases and assessments. Some may say that such schools will add to the already growing tax burden of our cities and states but we just wonder if through this plan there would not be developed a new municipal efficiency that would render a service and make savings which would far more than offset the added cost of such schools.

LINDY'S NEWEST ROLE

ONE of the best things about Col. Lindbergh is that he keeps growing. First we knew him as a splendid young adventurer. Then we discovered that his success in crossing the ocean and landing just where he said he would was due to the most careful preparation and precise knowledge.

After that he took the lead in the development of commercial aviation in this country, and, for a vacation made a good-will tour of Central and South America.

Now he had added another to his long list of achievements—the discovery of a lost Indian city in Central America. Many an older man will envy him his latest avocation. Archaeology has always been one of the most fascinating of occupations, and he has made an important contribution to it by proving the value of aviation in discovering ancient ruins which tangled tropical forests render inaccessible to the ordinary explorer.

Lindbergh has agreed to continue his archaeological work in Arizona and New Mexico and has already taken pictures for the Carnegie Institution in Chaco Canyon, Pojarito Plateau, and the Rio Grande, Champa, and Pecos Valleys.

As the news dispatches pointed out, his work "permits the mapping of unknown sites, discovery of new places and an accurate method of determining the best means of reaching such places with excavation parties to carry on the work."

Lindbergh, the popular hero, becomes the hero of science as well.

It takes all kinds of people to make a world and eat all kinds of candy on sale now.

A professor says the great American romance is yet to come. So every young girl believes.

There isn't one man out of a thousand who realizes that he can be one man out of a thousand.

If he can remember when young men kept their hair plastered down with sweat, he is an old-timer.

The man who is out of harmony with his relatives probably has either money or a bad disposition.

Just now there are 28,000 actors and actresses out of employment in the United States. We are always in sympathy for those out of work, but not for those who try to get work at something they are not fitted for or capable of doing satisfactorily. We really do not know what kind of work some actor folks would be fitted for unless it would be food and drink testers.

A man "batted in" at a waiting line before the railroad ticket window at New York, and the men who were in a hurry glowered.

"I want a ticket to Boston," said the man, and he put 50 cents under the wicket.

"You can't go to Boston for 50 cents," returned the ticket seller.

"Well, then," asked the man, "where can I go for 50 cents?"

And each of the 14 men in that waiting line told him where he could go.

They also have a stall at the South Mill street market where they dispose of their farm produce. This fine gift was highly appreciated by all of us at our home.

Assistance in banishing rivalry among the nations in maintenance of costly armaments is hailed with approval by the greater portion of the American press, as curtailment or delay is ordered by President Hoover and Premier MacDonald in their respective navy-building programs.

"Mr. Hoover has a magnificent opportunity to write history in the field of international relations as they bear on the problem of stabilizing peace, and there is every indication that he intends to make the most of it," declares the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE, which admits that "he may encounter many difficulties," but "his record proves that he is not the man whom difficulties daunt. They simply serve to spur him to great effort."

With President and Premier taking the leadership for armament reduction, "according to the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, and with other nations vying with one another in promising support, it would appear that the near future should see a striking advance in the outlawing of war." THE SANTA BARBARA DAILY NEWS predicts "a far-reaching influence on other nations of the world," to the extent that "it is reasonably certain that a general agreement for the reduction of naval armament will follow."

"From quarters not fired with evangelical zeal for disarmament," suggests the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "the charge is likely to be forthcoming that Mr. Hoover has flown in the face of Congress by halting cruiser building when the House and Senate ordered. There is no justification for such a suggestion.... Mr. Hoover is at liberty, under the cruiser law, to postpone the laying down of the ships in question until the end of any given current fiscal year.... With practical idealists like Ramsay MacDonald and Herbert Hoover on the Anglo-American naval limitation, that cause is in safe and sure hands."

"If these two nations reach a workable understanding, it means that a real world limitation of armaments is in sight, with its resultant savings of millions to the people of all the world powers," asserts the KANSAS CITY JOURNAL-POST, while the HOUSTON CHRONICLE offers the judgment that "they can now see our way clear to action, and the people as a whole are going to had it as a boon to humanity." THE SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW credits Hoover, MacDonald and Dawes with "magnificent service, not only to their own countries but to the world," and refers to their courses of action as "noble negotiations, with their accompanying touchers of national good faith."

"By putting technicalities aside and going to the issue as an issue, they can solve this problem to the satisfaction of both peoples," says the ALBANY EVENING NEWS, with the belief that "the issue of naval reduction is greater than all the technicalities in the world." THE DETROIT NEWS says that "a foundation is being laid for the next naval limitation conference—laid so long in advance, and so carefully, that world opinion is sure to demand that the negotiations succeed."

A warning comes from the CLEVELAND NEWS that "it cannot be overlooked that Premier MacDonald is representative of a minority power," and "neutral observers believe he will be permitted a comparatively free hand only for a year or two at the most," and that the present development is "steps in the direction of world peace, yet only the beginnings of anything like an efficacious policy capable of withstanding the vicissitudes of government changes." THE KANSAS CITY STAR maintains that "parity with Great Britain, not inferiority, must continue to be America's policy."

"Mr. Hoover's determination to go more than half-way, to leave nothing undone, to conciliate the quite natural sensitiveness of British policy respecting the vital concern of imperial defense will have the approval of American opinion in the main," concedes the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, "provided it is not a prologue to inordinate and unjust sacrifices in the coming negotiations, and provided it does not encourage on the part of the British government the expectation of such sacrifices." THE TRIBUNE concludes: "America is self-confident, optimistic and generous in its purpose, and it has given the most substantial proof of its earnest disposition to peace. But it is the chief of the duties of its government to prevent the exploitation of the nation's good will and to protect at all times its safety and its just concerns."

Mr. Hoover appears to the NEW YORK TIMES in this situation "not as an idealist but as one who has a firm grasp on stern realities. If he presses forward in this direct and practical manner, accepting one instrument and guarantee of peace after another, he yet may be known as

ATHLETES AND IKONS.

August 12, 1928.

I was awakened this morning by the sound of many voices—thousands of them. I learned on arising. The Russian youth sing like the Arabs, in a weird minor key, which sounds like a wail. They were marching, tens of thousands of them, boys and girls together. They were all dressed in the most abbreviated athletic garb. They were fine physical specimens. Those little, supple girls springing along as they marched, would make Florence Ziegfeld go green with envy. And we were seeing all of this free of charge from our hotel balcony.

They were marching out to take part in the Spartanic games. These games are being held for the proletariat athletes of the world, as a rival to the bourgeois Olympic games being held in Amsterdam. There are athletes who have been sent by working class societies of some thirty different countries. They go through military maneuvers as they march, and dancing contests by boys and girls and all by groups. They will glorify the individual as they do in the Olympic games.

I was brought back with me a job lot of ikons. For I have been to a street fair at which the remnants of the old nobility were selling their household effects, including their family ikons, to eke out a miserable existence for a few days longer.

Prayer.

"When temptation darts assail us,
When in dubious paths we stray,
Let Thy goodness never fail us,
Lead us in Thy perfect way."

Of habits he had one or two,
Which cultured people there take Sometimes unshaven he would go,
As if he scorned all outward show,
And mocking every social law,
His worst the passing stranger saw.

Yet in the cruel war zone he Was cited twice for bravery,
And those who served with him out
There
The splendor of his life declare
In that great sacrificial test,
He stood among the nation's best.

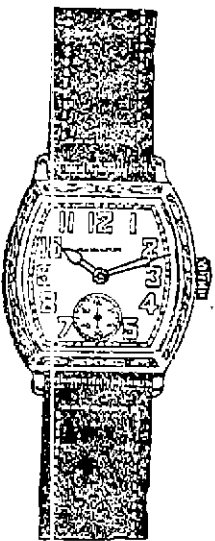

We found his record filled with deeds
Of which the public never reads,
Kindly and gentle, brave and strong,
He tended all who chafed along,
He taught us all who judge from show,
How true a man we know.

Cathedral Fund Campaigners To Rest Of Month

Activities Will Be Suspended
During August By Team Workers

EXPECT TO REACH
$400,000 GOAL TODAY

Chairmen of zones outside of New Castle and New Castle subscribers in the Cathedral debt re-funding campaign will be the guests of the New Castle team organization at their final summer report meeting this evening.

Summer weather and the vacation period have not deterred the Cathedral campaigners from carrying on in their purpose of raising the funds necessary to pay off all debts and retiring the second mortgage of the institution. A recess for the month of August has, however, been declared, and tonight's report will be the last until September, when the campaign will be resumed with renewed vigor.

A special committee, together with the zone committees, of which there are 52, will continue to go on through August, with a view to entering the fall phase of the campaign with half a million dollars raised. The last formal report from the entire territory, on July 16 brought the total to the $300,000 mark. It is the hope of the campaigners that tonight's report will bring it close to $400,000.

In any case, the Scottish Rite bodies are firmly determined to go on with the campaign until it attains its object of paying off every debt except the first mortgage. This makes the campaign objective, with the $600,000, second, mortgage and interest included, $982,000.

Tonight's report dinner will take place at the Cathedral in the west banquet hall and 8:30 o'clock.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

There was a pathetic array of articles offered for sale, old pictures, silverware, little baby things, articles of furniture,—anything that might bring a few kopecks. These dear old faces, with deep wrinkles which tell the story so tragically of their sufferings, still show an innate refinement. I know how deeply they must feel the hurt when they are compelled to come out in public and display for sale intimate articles which must have many endearing associations. They all look jumpy. The glance around furtively. Their nerves have been set on edge by the treatment which they have received at the hands of the "Cheka."

One never knows where these secret police may be lurking. I have the oppressed sense of being under surveillance all the time. They seem to be ready to seize upon any word or gesture as having a hostile meaning. Today I was told of a man who used the word "Cheka" in a private conversation, quite casually and not at all derogatorily. He was immediately pounced upon by a member of the Cheka who had overheard him, and who demanded to know what he meant by deriding the Cheka. To his reply that he was not speaking at all in derision, this secret policeman replied, "I heard you speak the word and I assumed of course that you were saying nothing good of us."

I attended a sub-rosa service today. It was a perfectly peaceful affair. There was nothing about it which was at all seditious. Yet the worshippers seemed to be in constant terror of being raided. Such services are strictly under the ban. No groups may gather for religious discussions or exercises except in certain duly authorized churches. I felt a spiritual kinship with those non-conformists of whom King James said, "Egad! I'll make them conform or I'll harry them out of the land!"

Spiritualists Will Picnic Saturday

On Saturday, August 3rd, the annual picnic of the Spiritualist churches of Western Pennsylvania will be held in Cascade park from 11:00 in the morning until seven in the evening. Good speakers will be present and interesting services held. Dinner will be served at 6:00 o'clock.

Arrange Funeral For Train Victim

Woman Steps Off One Track Directly in Front Of Oncoming Train

Funeral arrangements for the late Mrs. Francis Heggl of Pukaski, R. D.

I, near the fall being made by the Standard Slag company, nine miles north of this city, who was instantly killed Thursday shortly before noon when struck by Pennsylvania passenger train, No. 424, have not as yet been completed.

Mrs. Heggl, who was sixty years of age, was born in Austria and for some time past has been conducting a small boarding house for employees of the slag company near the plant.

She has a son residing in the midwest.

She was walking on the north-bound track of the Pennsylvania railroad, when she noticed a freight train enroute north on it and stepped over on the southbound track. She had hardly done so, when the passenger train, southbound, appeared on the scene and although the engineer of the passenger train whistled in warning and made every attempt to stop his train, he was unable to do so until after it had hit and killed her.

The body is being held in a local funeral home pending the completion of the funeral arrangements.

New Traffic Lights For Grove City

More Stop Signs To Operate In Mercer County Town;
Other News

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, Aug. 2.—Workers are installing the recently purchased traffic lights for the intersection of Lincoln and North Broad streets. This installation was asked some weeks ago of the council when a petition with 200 signatures was presented at a special meeting to have this dangerous intersection protected. These particular streets are most heavily traveled in town owing to the fact that it is the only outlet at present for the traffic of the Cooper-Bessemer. Several accidents have happened and many narrow escapes. The new lights will aid in the handling of traffic at this point.

The office on South Broad street, that has been occupied by the Burgess, M. L. Clark for the past two years has been closed and moved to the municipal building. During the summer months Burgess Clark spends much time on his farm between Slippery Rock and New Castle and wishes to state that any persons wishing to see him, can do so in the municipal building on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons of each week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Meade, College avenue, will be hosts to the annual picnic of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church on the lawn of their home Thursday evening at six o'clock. Husbands of the members will be guests of the evening.

A hundred and fifty employees of the local plant of the Bessemer-Cooper Company attended a meeting in the offices at which time officials outlined the new chart of accounts and the system of charging labor and accounts which has been installed.

The plan has been in operation at the Mt. Vernon plant for several years and has been developed to a high state of efficiency. Mr. Daney, controller of finance, Jed Montis and Herman Barber, discussed the system during the meeting. Following the business meeting a social session was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

A most delightful time was enjoyed Tuesday at Memorial Park, when the members of the Grove City Rotary Club and their families enjoyed a picnic and outing. The losing side of the recent content, which was led by Fred Mills were hosts to the other side, led by William Mercer and their families for the evening.

Reports from the Grove City hospital on the condition of Mrs. John Floyd, was badly injured when struck by an auto on Broad street last week is to the effect that she is improving nicely.

OFF TO THE SCENE OF ACTION

Soft words always turn away wrath. And Dawdler made both Whizz and Peter feel ashamed of themselves. Rather sheepishly they looked at each other and plighted their friendship. Having acted as peace-maker between the two, Dawdler was ready for action. Clapping his high hat on the back of his head at its usual jaunty angle, Dawdler, Duke in spite of himself, took a look at his reflection in the little mirror he carried on his person, and bringing his treasured cane out from its mysterious hiding place somewhere about him, Dawdler swung it airily, then with it lightly tapped Peter on the back.

"Well, comrade," he buzzed right merrily, "are you ready and willing to set out to see the sights even if the first sight does happen to be a battle royal? If so, follow me. And Whizz, if you feel strong enough, keep close behind us!"

At a brisk walk, off started Dawdler and Peter, with Whizz at his heels, had to hurry to keep up with the lively fellow.

The three had not gone very far before they heard a noise that to Peter, at least, sounded as though a great many sewing machines were running at full speed. Puzzled, Peter was about to ask what it was, when Dawdler exclaimed:

"There's going to be plenty of work for me to do in a short while. It may be a lucky thing after all, that you were wounded, Whizz, old chap. Binding up your wing gave me a bit of practice in the art of doctoring and I am now all ready with my splints and bandages to do first and duty."

"Those are the workers buzzing, boy, hear them? They never buzz so long and loud unless they are very much excited and they never grow excited unless there is a battle on or the prospect of a fight between queen bees. When there's in the mood they are in now, somebody always gets hurt. They lose their heads and push each other, even squash each other in the crush!"

"Say, Dawdler, do you think Colonel Buzz will be able to hold the outer gates?" asked Whizz, nervously.

"I am very much afraid he will not," answered Dawdler, sadly. "In fact, unless my ears deceive me, the invaders already have broken through his lines of defense and are at our very doors. Now that a battle is raging I wish I were not a man. Then I could arm and fight for the honor of my home and country."

Peter stopped stock still at Dawdler's remark.

"That's the queerest thing I have ever heard," exclaimed the boy. "What do you mean, Dawdler? In my country 'tis the men who fight. I have been wondering why you didn't march off to the fray with the rest of your comrades, but I didn't like to mention it. Now that you've brought up the question yourself, why didn't you?"

Denver Judges To Give Juries Views On Guilt

Change Is Made When It Is Claimed Legal Advisors Were Attempting To Defeat Justice

SAY MINDS OF JURY BECAME CONFUSED

(International News Service)
DENVER, Aug. 2.—Mingled sentiments were expressed here by lawyers following a ruling by the Colorado state supreme court giving district court judges permission to comment to juries upon evidence presented in criminal cases.
For more than fifty years district court judges have pursued a policy of silence in connection with testimony at trials.
The new ruling will become effective September 1 next, and will permit presiding judges to comment in an advisory way but will not allow the court to express any view upon the truth or falsity of testimony.

To Help Jurors.
The change in district court practice, it was pointed out, was brought about by the persistent complaint that criminal trials had resolved themselves into a battle between legal advisors to defeat justice rather than to bring about justice in deciding cases.

Juries, it was said, became tangled in the mesh of legal controversy and human tendencies to err.
Judges in Colorado courts previously enjoyed the right to order a verdict of not guilty if they were convinced that circumstances warranted such action, but now they may tell the jury, in a strictly advisory and unbiased manner, whether they think a defendant guilty or not.

In Other States.
The practice of judges advising juries prevails in only ten other states in the country, and in federal courts it is the beginning of the end of the jury system—the bulwark of justice, one prominent attorney commented on the ruling.
"A challenge to voters to elect only high class judges," another lawyer declared, while a third attorney said he considers it "a great step to advance the administration of justice."

Florida Governor Is Fast Traveller

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 2.—Either
Governor E. Carlton is triplets

There may have been times when Florida's governor wished he was twins or triplets, but it took news-miracle.

A Tampa newspaper carried a pic-newspaper in Florida carried a picture

But Governor Carlton was in Mil-

STOREWISE AND OTHERWISE

WELL!

You Didn't Get Any First of the Month Bill from Offutt's
DID YOU?

No one did because we have no expensive charge account system to add to the cost of our merchandise. That's why offutt's is a popular place to buy dependable dry goods. Thrifty buyers know where they can save money. We don't claim to have every item at all times lower than any one else, but it stands to reason that in the long run, if you shop here consistently you'll be money ahead, that's the history of a cash store.

Better adopt this plan if you haven't already and continually shop at Offutt's.
then you'll not have any worries about how you are going to pay those first of the month bills.

Congratulations

"Curanderas" Still Prey On Ignorance Of Peasants

(International News Service)
MADRID, Aug. 2.—Many parts of Spain are still prey to the darkest superstitions, and to queer kinds of semi-religious practices and beliefs bordering on idolatry. One phase of this backwardness is the faith in "curanderas" or "healers," among large masses of the poorer classes, particularly in the rural districts.

The Government is making a determined effort to stamp out this curse, but Spain will not see the last of its "healers" until public education has become general and ill usage has been enormously reduced. At present over sixty percent of the population of Spain does not know how to read or write.

The practices of the "healers," or them, might be compared closely with again, while she knelt by the bedside and prayed to the Virgin, and read a number of special prayers and verses from a book on Spiritualism.

Worry Over Injury Leads To Suicide

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 2.—Worry over ill health deranged the mind of Larry Maola, 26, of Thompson No.
2, and he took his own life at his home last night. He fired a shot in to his head just above his right ear and died almost instantly. The victim's mother and brother heard the shot and found the dying man in an upstairs room.

About five months ago Maola suffered an injury to his back in a mine accident and was dependent upon his slow recovery.

Former Bavarian Policeman Tries Specializing In Robbing Trousers

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—With the arrest of Max Schatz, former member of the Bavarian Police force, as the "phantom burglar" who for the last two months had specialized in purloining pockets of pants as they lay on the bedroom chair, many unhappy families squabbled in the Newtown section of Queens Borough, were cleared up.

Schatz, profiting by his European police training, had been so adept that he is said to have been seen at work only twice although he admitted to detectives that he had "done a hundred jobs."

Husbands, arising after their night's rest found their pockets emptied. A breakfast table clash with the head of the family would ensue.
It is known that the confounding arose in eight homes and police say many other cases of similar minor tiffs resulted from the burglar's activity.
In most cases the burglar's victims were unaware that their homes had been visited until newspaper stories announced the capture of Schatz.
News of the burglaries had been suppressed by police because it was feared that the neighborhood would have been thrown into a turmoil.
Newtown was the scene of the activity of the "radio burglar" who was electrocuted three years ago for killing a policeman. The same method was employed in trapping the "phantom pant's burglar," as he had been denied with the radio thief. Two detectives were assigned to every block in the locality with additional men patroling in autos.

Girl's Suicide In Romance Of East And West

DENVER, Aug. 2.—Only disaster resulted in the latest attempt to unite east and west in marriage.

Marie Kunitomo, daughter of Dr. N. Kunitomo, Japanese physician, committed suicide by shooting herself when she thought her suitor, James Lynch, former Denver city fireman, had jilted her on the eve of their scheduled marriage.

Lynch, in spite of his spirited contention that he was detained in another part of the state "on business" during the day of their planned nuptials, was dismissed from the city fire department because his behavior was "unbecomingly a member of the department and tended to lower the service in the estimation of the public."

Charge Filed.

The charges were filed against Lynch with the manager of safety and police by Fire Chief John F. Healy.

Dr. Kunitomo, himself the husband of a white woman, was so moved by the tragedy that followed the intended marriage between east and west, that he wrote a book on the evils of uniting two races in matrimony. Dr. Kunitomo is preparing to leave the state for his home in Japan where he will spend the remainder of his life. He has been a resident of Denver for many years.

During the trial which preceded his conviction of violating rule 33 of the laws regulating the city fire department, Lynch testified that it was "what people were saying" that caused his fiancée's suicide.

Family Objected.

Lynch testified that his mother went into hysterics when he told her that he would marry his Japanese sweetheart. His brother's heated objections caused much disturbance when he visited the Kunitomo home in an attempt to end the affair, Lynch said. Lynch's fellow firemen told him that he would be an outcast for the rest of his life if he married a Japanese girl. All this was wearing on Marie, Lynch said. But despite the opposition they were planning to go through with the ceremony.

Invitations had been sent to 300 guests to attend a church wedding. Attorneys for Lynch will appeal his dismissal to the city civil service commission.

See Pittsburgh Source Of Gas For Next War

U. S. Will Not Be Unprepared In Event Enemy Uses Noxious Death Instrument

NATIONS AGREE AGAINST ITS USE

By FRANCIS L. ARMSTRONG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—From this city, heart of the great Pennsylvania industrial region, may pour a flood of poison gas that will make the next war a shambles, according to Major General Harry L. Gilchrist, chief of the chemical warfare service, United States army.

However, the United States will not resort to gas unless the enemy first begins it, in case the country ever again should be involved in a war, General Gilchrist added.

One-third of the fatalities in the "World War" were caused by poison gas, the army chief pointed out when asked if gas would be abandoned in the next great conflict.

"Do you think such a weapon is going to be abandoned?" he asked.

U. S. To Prepare

Despite the fact the use of gases, many of which have been developed since the war, has been banned by agreement of the leading nations of the world, the United States will not be unprepared in case that weapon is resorted to, it was indicated.

Constant efforts are being made to develop sources of poison gas, as well as new types of gas, officials of this branch of the army pointed out. Pittsburgh, Gilchrist said, would be the chief source of supply in case of a war in which gas was used.

Major General Amos A. Fries, retired, predecessor in office of General Gilchrist, accompanied the latter here to discuss with the district advisory board and division chiefs of the third procurement district methods for maintaining a high degree of preparedness.

Fleets of airplanes, flying through the clouds freighted with new and deadly gases which might wipe out a city were characterized as "tommy-guns" by General Fries.

The former chief of the army poison gas service, snorted his disdain: "Dangerous to use."

"Mustard gas is still the king of gases. These new preparations aren't effective to use, and they are dangerous to users."

"The same is true of death rays. Those rays haven't any effectiveness at a range of more than 40 feet." General Gilchrist called attention to the Washington conference where many nations formed agreements not to use gas, in pointing out it would be impolitic for him to express an opinion as to the importance of gas in future wars. But, said General Gilchrist:

"Suppose two men were to make an agreement that if they got into a fight they would not throw bricks. Suppose they fought, but one of them found himself hard pressed, but with a pile of bricks at hand. Do you think he would refrain from using them?"

MARY LEWIS IS ASKING DIVORCE

Romance Of Metropolitan Opera Company Is On Rocks

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—The romance of the Metropolitan Opera company's "ideal couple" was climaxed Thursday with the filing of a separate maintenance suit by Mary Lewis against Michael Franz Bohnen, in which she accused her husband of cruelty.

Miss Lewis described her two years of married life as "one of continuous discord."

The couple, married in New York in April, 1927, and whose wedding was reported by their friends of the stage as an "ideal" union, separated last July 1. Miss Lewis, a former Arkansas choir singer, stated:

Their differences, it was revealed, began a few days after the wedding while they were on a liner bound for Europe. Miss Lewis accused her husband of striking her while a crowd of passengers was nearby.

Other charges alleged the husband dragged her about a Paris hotel room after knocking her down and kicking her.

When the couple returned to New York, Miss Lewis alleged Bohnen attempted to make her leap from a hotel window and when she refused, she said, he tried to push her out.

Able Message By Mrs. Gertrude Och At Gospel Centre

Talks To Large Audience On The Phillipian Jailer Thursday Evening

The young lady evangelist, Mrs. Gertrude Och, brought another able, heart searching message again last night at the Gospel Centre revival meetings, taking for her text Acts 16:30, "Sirs what must I do to be saved?"

The question was asked by the Phillipian jailer who was on the verge of committing suicide. In response to his cry the words came like music to his ears "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." Faith in Christ and his atoning blood is the only hope for the despondent soul.

The audience entered in heartily to the congregational singing led by Rev.

E. J. Berquist with Mrs. Clifford Probst at the piano.

After the song service many testified to the blessing that had already come to their own hearts from the enlightenment that had come from the scriptures by the clear presentation of God's word.

Two duet numbers were rendered by Mrs. A. B. Rigby and Mrs. John Wink using their guitars; also Miss Ann Thomas and Miss Malissa McCree sang a number entitled "I Shall Know Him."

The special musical numbers were effective and greatly appreciated by the audience.

Mrs. Och will speak again tonight and a trio composed of Mildred Thompson, Malissa McCree and Ann Thomas will furnish the special music.

The Gospel Centre is located two blocks from Washington street on South Mercer street. Services at 8 o'clock.

Youngsters Ponder Over Questionnaire Prepared By Edison

Questions Given Youngsters Aspiring To Be "Second Thomas Edisons" Are Foolers

Even Grownups Would Have Tough Time In Making Very High Mark If Tested

By DAVID P. SENTER International News Service Staff Correspondent

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 2.—Forty-nine hopeful junior scientists chewed millions of atoms of pencil wood Thursday over the latest questionnaire invented by Thomas A. Edison.

For five hours the youths did mental gymnastics with Edison's "fifty-seven varieties," covering 23 pages and guaranteed to break the heart of even an "ask me another" expert.

The winner will be educated along scientific lines under the guidance of the great inventor—and the winner should deserve it.

The questions blanketed a wide field, including chemistry, physics, history, mathematics, engineering and general questions a well-informed man should know but usually doesn't.

Questions Are Hard.

For instance, here are a few of the questions: "If you were marooned alone on a tropical island in the South Pacific without food how would you move a three-ton weight such as a boulder, 100 feet horizontally and fifteen feet vertically?"

"Outside of the field of religion, what three men not now living do you think particularly deserve your especial admiration and what qualities do you admire in each?"

"What place in our daily lives do you think the automobile will have 100 years from now?"

"The captain of a boat, when passing a certain cliff on a summer night, heard the echo of his whistle four seconds after blowing. How far away was the cliff? If he repeated this observation from the same point on a day in January, would he notice any change in the time? If so, what and why?"

"If you were to inherit $1,000,000 within the next year what would you do with it?"

"That's one lots of unscientific minds could answer."

"What are the principal cities on the Atlantic coast? Who invented the cotton gin? What did James Watt do? Why does this country honor Admiral Farragut? Who was Jenny Lind? What is a mammoth? What is a tourmaline?"

Lindy As Judge.

"Name the use of the following: Galvanometer, vernier, oscillograph, pantograph, micrometer, pyrometer."

"Define work, energy and power and give an illustration of each."

"How does weight differ from mass? How does force differ from energy?"

"Would a body weigh more or less on the moon than on the earth? Where would bodies weigh nothing?"

"What do you consider four of the most important qualifications necessary in any pursuit?"

The winner will be announced today. Among the judges are Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Henry Ford.

The contestants have organized an "Edison 49 Club," the members of which will correspond with each other and have annual reunions. The winner of the contest will be the president. A secretary will be chosen this afternoon. There will be no treasurer.

Several ethical problems were put to the contestants who had to state when they considered "a lie permissible" and tell if they would choose to become successful at the cost of happiness, comfort, reputation, pride, honor, health, money or love.

Others were more technically involved. For example "on what physiological phenomenon is the success of motion picture projection dependent? and, 'what is the underlying principle of an internal combustion engine?"

Included in the questions were: "What classes of books listed below do you most enjoy reading? Number them 1, 2, 3, etc., in order of preference: adventure, mystery stories, travel, biography, fiction, invention, history, economics, science."

"If you have been given a certain experiment to perform and had been informed that it could be done successfully, but you had failed ten times, what would you do?"

"What new discovery or invention do you believe would be the greatest benefit of mankind? Why?"

"Two towns on opposite sides of a river one mile wide, are cut off from communication, with each other by any electrical means, due to a calamity. How could you attempt to establish communication between the two cities without the use of electricity? The river can not be crossed by human beings."

"Will you act as spokesman for the candidates when we meet Mayor Walker in New York City or would you prefer to let some one else do it? Why? Give a brief statement of what you hope will be a typical day for you when you are fifty years of age."

"The index of refraction of a glass is 1.5 and of another glass is 1.7. If a 61-convex lens of the same geometrical design was made of each of the two glasses, how would they differ optically if they were placed in a transparent liquid of index of refraction 1.6? What effect would each have on a beam of light parallel to its principal axis?"

"When you read the names of the following persons what facts are associated with them in your mind: Mendeleff, Davy, Perkin, Faraday, Curie, Priestley, Gaylussac, Dalton, Solvay, Ramsay, Lavoisier."

"If you were nailing a copper sheet on an exposed surface what kind of nails would you use, and why?"

"Assume the increase of any colony of mice to be such that the number doubles every three months. How large will the colony be at the end of three years if we start with one pair?"

"A triangle each of whose sides is fixed is divided into three equal areas by drawing two lines parallel to the base. Where will these lines intersect the altitude?"

LOW-GRADE BRAINS

Gambler, crook, thief and others who live below the level of ordinary respectability often gain a reputation for being smart. Even unenthusiastic newspaper headline writers sometimes refer to some criminals as clever. The assumption is they are brainy. The fact is that the outstanding, overwhelming, first and last characteristic of a crook is dumbness. If he were not ignorant, he would know that he had embarked on a ship that is always wrecked. He hasn't even the chance of a ten to one shot. Life can't be even an adventure for him, for there is not the remote possibility of victory.

Crooks sometimes bear a reputation for brains because they have a kind of instinctive cunning. Cunning is not a nice word to apply to humans. It is a word for snakes, cats and South American ant-eaters. Snakes have cunning but they have tiny brains.

A CITY'S REAL SIZE

Loyal inhabitants of large towns will be glad to know that the U. S. government, in taking the census, is going to give statistics for "metropolitan districts," surrounding large cities, as well as the figures for population inside city limits. The true definition of a city includes more than the organization of the municipality and the group which lives inside certain limits. It includes all those whose interests are centered in the growth, development and policy of a total district.

WALKER AND NEW YORK

It will astonish those who know Mayor Walker to learn from political observers that he will undoubtedly be mayor of the Greater City for another four years. Jimmie Walker understands New York people and he understands his job. He knows his business. At home or abroad, in the city or in the middle west or south, he is representative of New York. He is the spirit of the greatest city in the republic. And those who do not think he works diligently at his great job are only those who do not know him.

PLANS AND PIGEONS

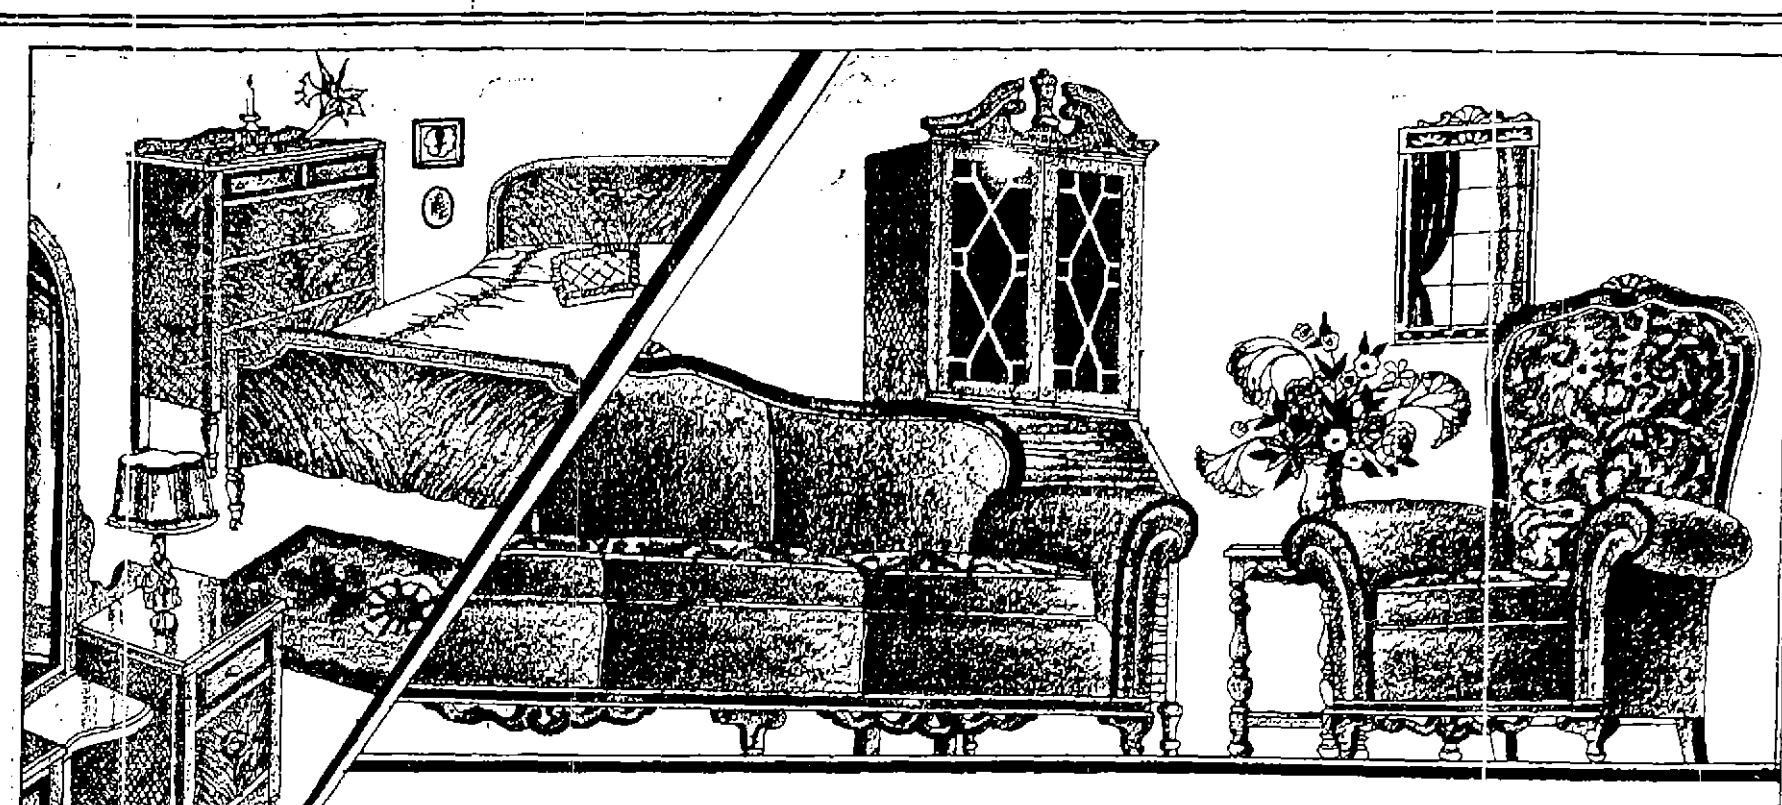

Homing pigeons have long been famous for speed over long distances. And yet the pigeon is as out of date as the horse and buggy when it comes to competing with airplanes. Don't ever think nature can't be improved on. Man-made machines can beat nature at many games. Nature has made mistakes in the development of animals which proved worse than useless. The animals have disappeared.

Men sometimes blame their failures on their own "human nature." It's no excuse. Human nature can be modified, corrected, improved. The airplane is an improvement on the homing pigeon.

St. Louis Booms Welcome To Two Daring Aviators

Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine Are Feted In Fine Fashion By St. Louis Folks

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—St. Louis Thursday boomed its tribute to the two famous endurance flyers who for nearly three weeks sailed over the St. Louis district.

Down boulevards lined with cheering multitudes, and with two navy blimps and a squadron of airplanes overhead, Dale "Red" Jackson and Forest O'Brine rode in triumph.

Aerial bombs thundered at intervals, sirens shrieked and clouds of confetti added to the tribute given the two pilots who defied the laws of gravity for over two weeks.

Acting Mayor Neuman officiated at ceremonies where a scroll was presented to the flyers.

Behind the flyers in another car the ground crew of the endurance flight, composed of Major Wassal and "Shorty" Chaffee, rode.

In the next car were Mrs. Sally Jackson and Elsie O'Brine, wives of the pilots.

youths expected to pass through Columbia on U. S. highway 40. The boys were arrested and the sheriff was asked for instructions as to what charges to hold the youths on. He told Columbia police the boys were wanted for catching two frogs in a Warren county pond and that rather than take them back police here should "extract" $10 from the four boys and let them go. This was done and the money mailed him.

Girls' School Has Course In Aviation

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Mason Junior College and School for Girls today had announced a new course in aviation, including ground aviation, a course for flying for a pilot's license and a commercial license course.

The work will be under the direction of Prof. Spaulding, director of the Curtiss Ground school, and will meet the requirements of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

This is not the first time that Mason College has launched a course in a field formerly regarded as one solely for men. Some years ago a course in Journalism was instituted and the students at the college were allowed to work on assignment on the local newspaper, the Daily News.

Behind the flyers in another car the ground crew of the endurance flight, composed of Major Wassal and "Shorty" Chaffee, rode.

In the next car were Mrs. Sally Jackson and Elsie O'Brine, wives of the pilots.

Largest Sow Is Owned By College

PORT COLLINS, Colo., Aug. 2.—The Colorado Agricultural college owns the largest sow in the world in Titan Queen, a Duroc Jersey.

She weighs 1,123 pounds, at least she did the last time she was on the scales, but she is still gaining. During one week she gained 27 pounds.

Titan Queen's measurements follow:

From tip to tip—9 feet 4 inches.

Circumference around the heart, 88 inches.

Height—46 inches.

Smallest circumference of her back leg—10½ inches.

Moral Training As Enforcement Aid

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—Col. James W. Byrnes, declared at a reunion of the Laymen's Retreat League, at Jefferson Barracks, near here recently that stronger moral training instead of more laws, examining commissions and pleas for law observance will solve the problem of law enforcement.

"We are overlooking the necessity of appeal to the spiritual side of man," he said, "and this loss of moral training lays the foundation of disrespect for constituted authority."

That is what the well-groomed American woman requires according to New York beauty specialists.

PLANES MUST GO HIGH OVER NEW YORK CITY

IT'S WONDERFUL MADE A GREAT CHANGE IN HIM

Man States, After New Medicine, Ten Herbs, Ended Ills; Son Also Helped.

More and more men and women of this section are praising the new medicine, Ten Herbs, because of the way it relieved them of such health troubles as stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness, and a weak, run-down condition. If you have any such ailments, get a bottle of Ten Herbs today at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where this famous medicine with the ten wonderful natural ingredients is being introduced.

MR. FRED COUDRIET

"Ten Herbs is a wonderful medicine," it certainly made a big change in me," said Mr. Fred Coudriet, 615 Freeland Street, South Hill, Pittsburgh, Pa. "For 10 or 15 years I had been troubled with my stomach. Food did not digest properly, and I was afraid to eat much—sometimes I went for days without eating. Gas caused terrible bloating. I was constipated, and my liver was sluggish. I think my kidneys caused the awful pain across my back. I felt so bad I could hardly work."

"I had not finished the second bottle of Ten Herbs when I noticed a big change. I found I could eat anything without being troubled with gas and bloating. My bowels became regular, and my liver and kidneys were more active. The pains left my back, and I seemed to have new life. My son had ailments similar to mine, and Ten Herbs gave him the same fine results it did me. Your medicine seems to purify the whole alimentary tract so that Nature may respond to such purification by creating good digestion, more strength, purer blood, and real nerve vigor. I gladly endorse Ten Herbs to the public."

Try the tonic goodness of Ten Herbs. This modern liquid medicine cleanses and tones up the ailing system, and brings new feelings of health and strength over the body in general. Ten Herbs is being introduced at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington St., this city, and is sold at all drug and medicine stores throughout this entire section.

Tariff Members
Under Gag RuleNew Secrecy Rule Adopted
By Tariff Committee To Bar General PublicitySENATOR COUZENS IS DIRECTLY HIT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—A new "half and half" secrecy rule, partially gagging the Independent Senator James Couzens of Michigan, was adopted today by Republican members of the Senate Finance committee to prevent general publicity on their rate-changing in the new tariff bill.

Under the new rule, any senator can tell his constituents in person about the committee's action on tariff duties but all agreed not to give out any information to the general public. After having revealed a number of important tariff changes, Couzens announced he would halt his public announcements and hereafter "write" his constituents about them.

"From now on I'm going to write my constituents and I won't have anything to say publicly," said Couzens.

His decision again surrounded the committee's deliberations with secrecy. Where for two days the general public was able to learn about rate changes, now only the lobbyists, who seek the changes, and persons directly interested in raising or lowering the tariff can learn about the committee's action—until the whole bill is completed. In his brief service as an "unofficial spokesman" for the committee, Couzens revealed that the automobile rate had been fixed at 25 per cent ad valorem with all counter-vailing duties rescinded, that shingles had been placed on the free list and that the Senate Republicans generally approved the higher house rates on agricultural products.

Widow Charges Pilot Of Plane
Slept, Crashed

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 2.—Charging that the pilot, Frank Yeager, was asleep at the controls when his plane crashed, Mrs. Ruth W. Craig of Beaver, widow of Samuel Nesbitt Craig, prominent Beaver Valley business man who was burned to death in a mail plane accident in Nebraska February 26, 1928, has filed suit against Boeing Air Transport, Inc., for $15,000 damages in Seattle, Wash., courts.

Mrs. Craig has been residing at her home at 149 Beaver street, Beaver, since the death of her husband, with three children.

Craig, who was president of the Treadwell Construction company, the Midland Barge company and the Midland Furniture company at the time of his death, was en route to Los Angeles on business when the fatal accident occurred. He had missed a train at Chicago and took the mail plane to save time on his trip, it was said.

Near Marquette, Neb., the plane fell into a grove of trees and burst into flames, in which Craig was burned to death.

Prisoners Riot

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Overcrowded conditions, dissatisfaction with food, the effect of 100 degrees temperature upon narcotic addicts and others, and knowledge of the recent prison riots in New York today were given as causes for the riot in the Leavenworth federal penitentiary by Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons.

Order has been completely restored as a result of prompt and courageous action by Warden Thomas B. White and officers, Bates said.

Stock Favorites Reach New HighsBulls Advance Prices On U.
S. Steel And General
Electric In Buying Wave

By U. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Speculators who bought United States Steel, General Electric and other favorite blue chips of the stock market today paid the highest prices on record for their selections. In spite of new rumblings in the money market and the small hope held out for lower money rates over the balance of the summer, high-powered bulls were able to mark up prices to the highest ranges in industry with new gains of five to 10 points in a few of the outstanding group gainers.

Bullish enthusiasm ran riot in the early afternoon as the speculative favorites continued their dizzy advance. General Electric made a new 11-point jump to 293, at which price the stock was only seven points below its 400 objective. Rumors of a stock split-up persisted, but no authoritative word has yet been spoken on this subject. The best word from the big board was that the stock was getting scarcer as prices continued to mount.

U. S. Steel forged ahead to 215, propelled by a powerful buying wave. Bulls in "big steel" confidently predicted a price of 250 for the stock this year, to be supported by net earnings of $22 a share—and more. American Tel. and Tel. also set up a new high record at 285, also without any confirmation of the rosy rumors that have been passing unchanged through the financial district.

Modify New Ruling On Collection Of Gas Tax

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Faced by the fact that fully one half of the gasoline retailers in the state had failed to furnish corporate security bonds to obtain permits, the department of revenue today modified its ruling to broaden the type of security which will be acceptable.

The modification of the ruling which followed a long conference between Governor John S. Fisher, Secretary of Revenue Charles Johnson and Special Deputy Attorney General William A. Schneider is expected to result in quashing the suit pending in the Dauphin county court against the former requirement. An association of gasoline dealers had threatened a suit in equity to compel the department of revenue to modify its requirements for permission to collect the new four cent gasoline tax.

Under the new ruling announced today the department will accept as collateral for the amount of the bond required either a certified check or government or municipal bonds in an amount to cover the total.

The amount of the bond which will be required will be the maximum amount which the department of revenue expects each gasoline retailer to collect in one month under the new four cent tax rate.

As a result of the ruling today the dealers who already have paid for corporate surety bonds but are in a position to furnish the new types of collateral permitted will not have any redress for a one year period.

Dealers without financial resources, however, will be little helped by the new ruling. To obtain a certified check for any amount it will be necessary to post that sum with a bank and to lose interest on it which alone would almost equal the cost of a corporate surety bond.

The new ruling will greatly increase the work and responsibility of the gasoline tax collection bureau. It will be necessary to pass upon the value of all collateral offered for filing and to keep a constant check to make certain that its value has not depreciated below the maximum amount required.

The bonding provision was written into the four cent gasoline tax law in the hope of stopping the annual theft of a million dollars a year by dishonest dealers who collected the tax but failed to turn it into the state's coffers.

White To Hire Legal Assistance

Says He Does Not Want To Rest On Own Judgment On Two Cases

Solicitor Robert White today during council session, at his own request, was authorized to employ Attorney Wylie McCaslin to assist him in the Hodge and Schlossberg cases.

When William Street was improved the petition which waived damages was signed, White said, by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schlossberg.

Mrs. Schlossberg at the viewers' hearing declared she had not signed the waiver. Schlossberg, husband, had, it was learned.

The viewers awarded $800 damages. The city was mandamus by Attorney Charles Davis, acting for the Schlossbergs and the damages were ordered paid.

White believes, he said, that when Schlossberg signed the waiver it acted as a "stop" of payment.

He also said that he wanted to continue fighting the Hodge award and said that in some matters he did not wish to rest upon his own judgment and thought council should give him authority to employ assistance. He recommended Attorney McCaslin.

White was granted the requested authority.

DAVIES MOTTO IS GOOD ONE

City Should Practice What It Preaches To Citizens Of Community

Evidently Councilman D. O. Davies believes in the motto: "Practice what you preach."

When council met at city hall, Sidewalk Inspector Mosely reported having served sidewalk notices.

One was to J. C. Gilligan to build a sidewalk at his property in Garfield avenue.

The others ordered property-owners Brown, Levine, Coffey and Cooper to bring Long Avenue sidewalks to grade.

The Gilligan case was brought up first.

"If he does not build it the city will," said Reeves.

Davies remarked there is a dangerous sidewalk condition due to storm water and lack of sewer lines in West Moody avenue.

"If other people have to build sidewalks and obey the law the city should do likewise," remarked Davies presenting a motion that the city build sidewalks in Junior High street, West Moody avenue and Arlington avenue.

The question is: Have we the money?" asked Reeves.

"If we make others spend money, we should find money," replied Councilman Davies.

"You'll only spend it for something else anyway," said the mayor.

Reeves offered the second to Davies motion which passed.

Commerce, Industry, Transportation Sit Down Together At Big Gathering At Ellwood Country Club Thursday

Commerce, industry and transportation sat down together in the Ellwood Country Club Thursday evening for one of the most important affairs ever staged in the metropolis of the southern end of the county.

The primary idea of the banquet was to honor the industries that have made Ellwood City what it is, actually it turned out to be one of the fine demonstrations of good feeling between all the elements going to make up the city, that it has ever seen.

About 150 men were present and among the 150 were business men, industrial leaders, transportation officials and city and state officials. Complete in its every element the banquet provided the vehicle for the furthering of good feeling between commerce and industry and out of it must surely come a mutual benefit to every one concerned.

The Ellwood City Chamber of Commerce sponsored the banquet with the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs assisting. For the speakers of the evening the State Capitol was called upon and State Treasurer General Edward Martin and Dr. Leonard F. Fox of the State Chamber of Commerce were present.

Following the service of the dinner, Hon. M. A. Bickett, president of the Ellwood Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the visitors in a short address. "We fully appreciate the importance of industry in Ellwood City," said he, "and this banquet tonight is to publicly demonstrate the high regard in which they are held." He then introduced Dr. Carl Hayes who was the toastmaster of the evening.

Wasting little time on non-essentials Dr. Hayes called upon Dr. Leonard F. Fox the first speaker of the evening. After paying his respects to the agencies sponsoring the dinner Dr. Fox launched into an address on industrial conditions in this state that was well worth hearing.

Dr. Fox Speaks.

"Industry is one of the main springs of any community," said Dr. Fox, "and you do well to encourage them. Not alone should you be seeking new industry but you should see that industry now established in your city gets fair treatment. Remember that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

"At the present time cities are engaged in mass competition for new industry. To survive the struggle every city must meet that competition and to do this means that you must have harmony within your own ranks. Your Chamber of Commerce is the logical agency to sell your city to strangers and while Ellwood City has a splendid organization it should be much larger than it is."

Not Many New Industries.

New industries are not being added in Pennsylvania like they were 20 years ago, a survey of the situation for 1928 shows that about 12,500 new employees were added in Pennsylvania in that year. Of that number about 8,000 were on account of expansion of already existing plants and some 4,500 came by new industry. The survey was of the questionnaire type and out of 175 cities answering it only 56 showed any increase.

"To meet the mass competition a city must have vision, an open mind, and courage. You must be sold on yourselves before you can sell your city to outside industry. This means co-operation in your organizations with every man doing his bit towards the end in view."

General Martin Speaks.

General Edward Martin, state treasurer of Pennsylvania spoke on "The Business Man in Politics" and his experience well fitted him for the subject. Lawyer, banker, soldier, political leader and state official, his career has given him a comprehensive view of every side of civic life and his address reflected that experience.

"Under our form of government," said the general, "every business man must know that the government itself depends upon political organization and management. Since the World War all taxes except federal have advanced sharply and taxes are set by the officers elected through political activity. Hence it behoves the business man to interest himself in politics for his own good."

"To my mind political participation is little less than patriotic than military service. Every man and woman should take a lively interest in politics but by every day participation. This is a nation of two major parties and I regret that not more men and women in Pennsylvania believe in the principles of the Democratic party for with an even balance we would have a more active participation in politics."

"Pennsylvania has been called a boss-ridden state but it may interest you to know that the other states are coming to us for information on our taxes, our road system and our system of public health."

General Martin then paid a tribute to the work of the Lawrence county delegation in the General Assembly and finished by expressing his appreciation of the invitation to be at the industry banquet Thursday evening.

Other Features.

Rev. Robert H. Little pastor of the First Methodist church pronounced the invocation at the opening of the dinner and Paul Winter led the singing.

Representatives of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs were heard. Dr. H. E. Helling appearing for the former and Frank E. Moore for the latter. J. Audley Book, overseer of the State Grange spoke briefly upon the coming New Castle fair.

Chicago Rocks Unchanged For Untold Years

Rocks Beneath Mid-West Metropolis Are Same As They Were Millions Of Years Ago

ONLY CHANGES HAVE BEEN IN HARDENING

BY BYRON F. RIDDLE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—The earliest evidences of the existence of life in what is now Chicago, are estimated to date back six hundred million (600,000,000) years, according to Associate Curator Henry W. Nichols of the department of Geology at the Field Museum of Natural History.

The life of that time, according to Curator Nichols, consisted only of simple orders of animals and plants, of which he says abundant records have been found fossilized in the rocks of the region.

Records Obscure
"We know something of world conditions in even more ancient times," Mr. Nichols declares, "but the rocks of the more ancient are in the vicinity of Chicago, deeply buried, and at best the records they hold are obscure and difficult to interpret."

"The geologist history of Chicago has been peaceful and uneventful to a degree only occasionally encountered. There have been no volcanic eruptions, no formation and destruction of mountains, and in short, no geological forces have here acted with that vigor common elsewhere, which has left traces in broken, folded and contorted rocks.

"It is true that the site of the city has many times been submerged by the sea, and emerged again, but those submergences have been slow and orderly processes due either to local changes in the level of the region as a whole, or to variations in the level of the sea.

Rocks Unchanged
"The rocks of the city still lie horizontal as they were when deposited, and they have undergone few changes save the hardening and recrystallization process due to the pressure of overlying rocks and the lapse of time.

"The changes of level which have admitted and driven back the sea have not been great. Only once has the region stood at any great elevation, and at no time have the submergences attained any great depths. Even at the present day, in depression of the land levels of only 600 feet would again submerge Chicago beneath the sea."

W. F. Moody, newly elected president, was in charge of the meeting.

Remove Hose Reel From Lee Avenue

Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn stated this morning that the hose reel which has been stationed on Lee avenue for protection of residents of that district while West Washington street was being repaved has been removed, and that protection will be afforded by the regular fire apparatus in the future.

Woods and Golder who have the contract for the repaving of the street have granted the fire department permission to use the street in an emergency although the street will not be open to traffic for some time yet.

The reel was secured from the American Sheet and Tin Plate Co. by Chief Lynn and carried 40 feet of hose and a reducer.

CARR IS APPOINTED
Lewis Carr has been named by city council as inspector of the Adams avenue storm sewer which is under construction today.

Crawford Avenue Project To Start

Council Orders Resurfacing Contract Approved By Action Today

Council today in formal session at the city building authorized the execution of a contract between the city and Woods & Golder for the resurfacing of Crawford avenue between Croton avenue and East Main street.

Henry Golder of the contracting firm told council that he had faith in the Pennsylvania-Ohio railway and said that if the company did not repair and fill depressions between the street car tracks he would at his expense.

Councilmen Davies and Reeves said the company had verbally promised this and said the company had not issued a contract but rather a "work order" to the contractors.

Councilman Tyler wanted to know if the approval of the contract would cause a legal entanglement as several days ago council ordered that the company resurface between the rails. Tyler was told that this action was based on a letter from the P-O officials to Woods & Golder and not to city council.

Finally Councilman Reeves declared: "I have faith in the Penn-Ohio officials. They made the promise and will do it."

His motion to have the proper officials execute the contract was voted on favorably.

Councilman Burns was not present today having left the city for a week.

Property Owners Say They Did Not Request It, Receive No Benefits

When city council convened in councilmanic chambers at the city building this morning they were greeted by at least a dozen Moravia street property-owners who said they had visited council to protest against paying assessments for the widening of Moravia street.

The attitude of the Moravia street property owners is that they did not request the widening and declared that abutting property had not been benefited.

The protest was sent to committee. Councilman Tyler declared he would vote for the matter going to committee providing that councilmanic colleagues did not let it grow dusty in a pigeon hole.

His colleague, Mr. Davies remarked that as Councilman Burns is absent:

Dallas Is Agog Over Activities Of Mayor Tate

"Hot Dawg" Mayor Appoints Municipal Chaplain As Latest Innovation

PROVIDES DONKEYS FOR DALLAS KIDDIES

(International News Service) DALLAS, Aug. 2.—This rather dignified city is all agog over the rapid-fire activities of its "Hot Dawg" Mayor, J. Waddy Tate, whose ideas and innovations concerning public affairs has furnished great dissension and debate among Dallas residents.

His Honor obtained his peculiar nickname due to the fact that during his campaign he furnished hot dogs at all his political rallies. The thousands who swarmed to the meetings, if they did not approve of his policies, enjoyed the hot dogs, and in the end hot dogs exerted a subtle influence on voters for Tate was swept to victory over Temple Houston Morrow, grandson of grim old Sam Houston.

Municipal Pastor

Mayor Tate's latest departure from established custom is the appointment of a municipal pastor. The mayor thought Dallas should have an official minister to preach to them that are in prison, marry the poor, bury the forgotten dead, comfort the sick, and so named Rev. Mrs. Charles B. Chastain to the post. She is the wife of Rev. Charles A. Chastain and has been a minister for several years.

And the mayor has a lookout for the children of the city. During his campaign he said there were too many snakes in Dallas parks and not enough donkeys for children to ride. He promised to secure donkeys for the children. Just recently the cargo of donkeys arrived and after a joyful parade, led by the mayor, the donkeys were put in the parks—and donkey riding has become one of the most popular sports with the city's youngsters.

The mayor became convinced that the price of swimming was too high, declared it robbed many of the privilege of taking a plunge, and as a result issued an order providing for certain days during the week when no charge is made for going in the city pools.

Fervent laws that for years have been protected as if they were public shrines are no longer protected, Mayor Tate disapproved in various manner of "Keep Off The Grass" signs and invited pedestrians to tread where they will in public parks and on city property.

Kept In Hot Water

These and other action have kept the mayor in "hot-water." His latest proposal is for the employment of a "public defender." He is convinced that "shyster lawyers" are robbing the poor and taking advantage of persons in unfortunate circumstances and thinks the city should have an attorney to represent defendants in police courts.

Some of the bitterest criticism leveled at the mayor resulted recently when he declined to address the state convention of Negro Knights of Pythians. Following a barrage of disapproval the mayor explained that he was ill, wrote a short address of welcome to be read at the convention and left for Mineral Wells for ten-day rest.

Meanwhile the mayor of Dallas is a much debated person.

Chicago Plans Home Dirigible For 1933 Fair

By BYRON F. RIDDLE
International News Service Staff

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—One of the city's monuments to the world's fair in 1933 will be a Chicago-built dirigible, according to plans announced recently by a local inventor.

The design of the all-rigid, metal-covered, lighter-than-air craft has been approved by the navy department for military uses and, according to experts, the plans represent the ultimate in dirigible construction, with the defects of the Graf Zeppelin and the ill-fated Shenandoah eliminated.

Otto Geisler, the inventor, who has been closely connected with aeronautics since his first balloon flight in Germany more than fifty years ago, announced his plans before the Hamilton Club Aviation Committee All Metal Shell.

The new ship will have an all-metal shell for the gas bag and will be completely streamlined, eliminating the fins and rudder that caused so much trouble to the Graf Zeppelin on its last attempt to cross the Atlantic.

The dirigible will be 900-feet long, will have a diameter of 35-feet and a displacement of 10,000,000 cubic feet. Drive power will be furnished by ten motors of 800-horsepower each. The control will be furnished by eight motors of 300-horsepower each, operating on swivels at each end of the bag.

Built on the above scale, the vessel will carry 500 passengers and their baggage on a trans-Atlantic flight, with a 50-per cent allowance for fuel consumption.

Fins Eliminated.

The elimination of fins and complete control of the ship through propellers operated on swivels make it possible, say the inventors, to land the ship under power and without loss of the precious helium gas. This feature also does away with the heretofore all necessary mooring mast.

A $20,000,000 corporation is being formed to finance the project. It is planned to launch at least two of the giant sky liners in operation on the Chicago-New York route before the opening of the world's fair.

Central Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Phil Cook would have come in right smart, handy back in the good old days when a leading man had to suffer for his place in between acts and sing and dance in between acts when he wasn't shifting scenery or taking tickets and selling crackjacks and red lemonade.

For Phil is "the most versatile man on the air." No relation to Joe Cook, "the one-man vaudeville show," however.

He writes his own material—also many sketches—plays a ukulele, sings, does black face, old man, buck private, northern, eastern, southern and western dances. In fact, he does about everything in the line of entertainment. There are several Broadway shows to his credit, every line of which were written by him. He writes the music and the words.

Phil hails from Coldwater, Mich. He got his big start in London a few years ago at the Coliseum. The Coliseum has a reputation for being a cold, cold place where "getting a hand" is like pulling teeth. Phil Cook was warned of this.

Won Heart of London.

And when you consider that all he had to help him was a chair and a ukulele—it doesn't sound very encouraging. But this young Michigan boy shrugged his shoulders, let his sense of humor save him from cold feet and the management was amazed to see him walk on the stage in a full dress evening suit with a large woolen Scotch muffler wound around his throat.

When he sang one number and there was no applause Phil shivered and drawled drearily:

"They told me this was a cold place. I bought this muffler—but I see I needed a hot water bag."

The crowd laughed a little. After his next number they laughed a great deal—and, unsolicited, Phil Cook removed the muffler and laid it on the floor beside his chair. He gave them real American songs in the true American manner and they "fell for it like a ton of bricks."

He was a riot in London from that time on. The English had melted to his broad grin and his boyish humor.

An Artist, Too

Yes, he is married. And six feet, two inches tall and weighs 185 pounds and has the nicest wavy light-brown hair and blue eyes, and the hair is just beginning to be becomingly streaked with gray. He is an artist, too. Draws divinely.

Sometimes your artists are people whom it is just as well you can't see. A 200-pound lady playing Juliet, for instance. But Phil Cook has a personality that is lost before the "make-up."

Television should hurry along just in such cases as this.

We were quite shocked to see the handsome debonaire Mr. Cook chewing gum in the studio, but one of the announcers assured that time on.

"Oh, that is because he can't smoke in the broadcasting station. Nearly all of the men do it. It isn't a habit."

That was a relief.

Russia Hopes For Development Of Trade Relations With U. S.

By EDWARD L. DEUSS.

(Copyright 1929, International News Service.)

MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—The interest of Soviet business officials in the Russian visit of the delegation of American business men under the auspices of the American-Russian chamber of commerce has induced M. G. Gurevich newly appointed director of the Foreign Department of the Supreme Economic Council to define baselines along which United States-Soviet commercial relations might develop. M. Gurevich recently returned from two years in the United States as a representative of Amtorg, the Soviet Trading corporation of New York.

Without concealing the intonations, delays and disappointments which American business men, accustomed to high-speed methods will meet in Russia, M. Gurevich believed that on a credit basis there are opportunities for mutually profitable operations.

Industrial Branches.

There are seven large branches of industry he said which the Soviet government has decided to develop along American lines, thus creating opportunities for the sale of American goods and technical engineering assistance. These branches are as follows:

1. Transportation—railroads, inland waterways, airways and motor traffic. Shipbuilding is excluded.

2. The metal industry, especially iron and steel including mining, smelting and refining, rolling mills and blast furnaces.

3. The mining industry—coal, oil, ferrous and non-ferrous metals.

4. The building construction industry for the manufacture of all building materials for industrial and residential purposes.

5. The construction of factories and residential buildings.

6. Internal factory transportation.

7. Agriculture, especially the development of big farms, wheat and cattle ranches, irrigation systems.

Copying America.

"The Soviet government cannot copy American methods blindly," M. Gurevich said. "Yet without foreign technical assistance we cannot hope to surpass the United States as an industrial nation. American technique is not always better than European, but in many fields of endeavor we have found that American methods are better adapted to Russian conditions than European methods."

"We have the same geographical expanse of territory the same problems of exploiting mineral wealth, the same problem of training immigrant labor immigrants for us being the persons who flock to an announcement issued recently by T. B. Clement, general traffic manager.

Clement said Miss Earhart will give information in providing comforts of travel which the women demand.

Indiana Statute Curbs Crime Wave

Criminals Found With Firearms Are Given Salty Sentence

(International News Service) INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 2.—The nation has its "five and ten" law in the Jones prohibition enforcement amendment, but Indiana has a "ten and twenty" statute that is working effectively to decrease the crime wave.

The new Indiana law is aimed especially at bandits who use guns in the accomplishment of a felony. It prescribes that whoever a person is found guilty of carrying out a major crime, while armed with a dangerous weapon, he shall serve a determinate sentence of from 10 to 20 years in the State Prison.

The offense of carrying a gun while violating a major law is entirely separate from penalties that may be imposed for breaking the major law itself.

Cannot Rouse New Hampshire Voters

(International News Service) WOLFBOURNE, N. H., AUGUST 2.—Sounding of two five alarms and the blaring of the Wolfboro Town band, marking its first appearance, were insufficient to bring out the necessary number of voters to legalize a special meeting of the Wolfboro precinct. Headed by the band, a crowd of voters marched to the Town Hall to legalize the acceptance of a town girl, but upon arrival it was discovered that the 554 votes necessary were unavailable in the crowd. Two alarms were sounded, but this also failed to draw the needed votes.

Amelia Named Air Traffic Manager

(International News Service) ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman to successfully span the Atlantic in an airplane, has been appointed as assistant to the general traffic manager of the Transcontinental Air Transport, constant all-line, according to an announcement issued recently by T. B. Clement, general traffic manager.

Clement said Miss Earhart will give information in providing comforts of travel which the women demand.

Chicago Plans Home Dirigible For 1933 Fair

By BYRON F. RIDDLE
International News Service Staff

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—One of the city's monuments to the world's fair in 1933 will be a Chicago-built dirigible, according to plans announced recently by a local inventor.

The design of the all-rigid, metal-covered, lighter-than-air craft has been approved by the navy department for military uses and, according to experts, the plans represent the ultimate in dirigible construction, with the defects of the Graf Zeppelin and the ill-fated Shenandoah eliminated.

Otto Geisler, the inventor, who has been closely connected with aeronautics since his first balloon flight in Germany more than fifty years ago, announced his plans before the Hamilton Club Aviation Committee All Metal Shell.

The new ship will have an all-metal shell for the gas bag and will be completely streamlined, eliminating the fins and rudder that caused so much trouble to the Graf Zeppelin on its last attempt to cross the Atlantic.

The dirigible will be 900-feet long, will have a diameter of 35-feet and a displacement of 10,000,000 cubic feet. Drive power will be furnished by ten motors of 800-horsepower each. The control will be furnished by eight motors of 300-horsepower each, operating on swivels at each end of the bag.

Built on the above scale, the vessel will carry 500 passengers and their baggage on a trans-Atlantic flight, with a 50-per cent allowance for fuel consumption.

Fins Eliminated.

The elimination of fins and complete control of the ship through propellers operated on swivels make it possible, say the inventors, to land the ship under power and without loss of the precious helium gas. This feature also does away with the heretofore all necessary mooring mast.

A $20,000,000 corporation is being formed to finance the project. It is planned to launch at least two of the giant sky liners in operation on the Chicago-New York route before the opening of the world's fair.

Berlin Students Act As Tourists' Guides

(International News Service) BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The association of university students in Berlin has trained 160 students as guides for tourists visiting the German capital. Visitors from virtually every country in the civilized world will find among these students those who speak their own language. The guides' fees are prescribed, and no greater payment can be required than set forth in the printed schedule.

Maybe juries don't convict because nobody feels qualified to throw the first stone.

Quaker State-Ments

"Diligence is the mother of good luck." So it is that the motorist who diligently seeks out Quaker State is accustomed to freedom from repair bills. For this oil is super-refined—a special process which removes the waste material found in ordinary oils. Thus, in a gallon of Quaker State, there receives no waste, but an extra quart of lubricant.

Entomologist Doesn't Think Insect Will Ever Run Mankind Off Earth

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Some scientists predict that insect pests ultimately will run mankind clear off the earth.

Associate Chief A. L. Quaintance of the agriculture department's entomology bureau, thinks not. "Warfare between the rival kingdoms never will end," he agrees, "but human intelligence always will be equal to keeping it going, on more or less even terms."

"Yes, but how about insect intelligence?"

Just because we consider ourselves mightily smart, as human beings, are we safe in assuming that insects, in their way, are not pretty smart, too?

A. L. QUAINANCE

Dr. Austin H. Clark, the Smithsonian Institution's great authority on biology, speaks very respectfully of the insect mentality.

"In the animal world," he remarked to me the other day, "monkeys generally are classed next to man, but the highest type of monkey has not yet risen to an understanding of the use of tools."

"The mother wasp, of one species, when she buries her eggs in a hole in the ground, with a caterpillar she has stung for her children to feed on, pats down the earth over her cache with a tiny pebble. Another species sweeps off the place with a small twig."

"Tools!"

"True enough," nods Dr. Quaintance.

"The bees and wasps—the hymenoptera—are at the top of the insect scale."

"Their facility with the tamper and the broom is not their only remarkable characteristic. They show considerable solicitude in their care for their young and their community life is wonderfully developed."

"However—instant, I call it; not intelligence."

"Of course," conceded the entomologist, "it is a little difficult to draw the line between the two—something of a matter of definition."

"As I interpret it, intelligence is a capacity to meet entirely new situations by power of sheer reasoning. Some of the lower animals—dogs—maybe monkeys—do show signs of it—almost human occasionally."

"But not insects, in my opinion. With them I take it to be purely an instinct of race survival."

At any rate, on close study, do insects manifest interesting and even remarkable qualities?—like animal pets.

"Interesting, very," replied Dr. Quaintance.

"Hardly likable. I think most people feel a repulsion for them—except, probably, for butterflies. The repulsion disappears with familiarity, but no particular liking takes its place. I myself would not care for a pet insect—well as I am acquainted with them."

"Still," continued the doctor, "they are entertaining, as well as instructive, to watch."

"For instance, if one likes fights."

"They stage some magnificent ones—all sorts, according to the kind of insects. No quarter, given or asked, either. What about? Oh, the eternal triangle."

"They are a good deal addicted to cannibalism."

"Not lovable creatures, you see."

Then hostility is nature's law, between bugs and men?

"Not exactly hostility," rejoined Dr. Quaintance.

"So far as we and the bugs are personally concerned, I believe we might lead our separate lives without interfering with one another—but our interests clash."

"We of the human family realize it, and without ill feeling, but because we must, kill all the noxious bugs noxious to us, I mean! We can."

"The bug, in my judgment, goes his way serenely, unaware we are here."

Moscow Cleans Up Grafters In State Business

Many Arrests Made During Past Few Weeks; Others Lose Positions

HUGE AMOUNTS IN TAXES ARE LOST

By EDWARD L. DEUSS,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—A nationwide cleanup by the GPU of petty grafters in municipal, state and federal government offices and state-owned business undertakings is filling the jails of many towns. More than 500 persons have been arrested in recent weeks and probably five times that number thrown out of their jobs.

In only a few cases have high Communist officials been implicated in irregularities. The corruption was detected chiefly in the minor offices.
It was caused by the fact that private merchants who exist on sufferance of the Soviet regime, bribe local officials and tax collectors so that the merchants might continue in business unmolested and escape paying exorbitant taxes.

Many Are Fired.
Twenty per cent of all the state officials in the district of Astrakhan at the mouth of the Volga river were fired. Two hundred were arrested and will be tried in three shifts. The officials of the GPU charges, collected only 18 per cent of taxes payable from private merchants, causing a loss of 2,000,000 rubles ($1,000,000) to the government in two years. The whole caviar industry reeked with corruption the prosecutor said. The 40 Communist officials implicated are alleged to have drawn salary advances of 40,000 rubles in the last half year and presumably never intended to pay back the money.

The courts granted protection to everybody who paid for it. The wife of the assistant district prosecuting attorney was employed as legal counsel for three large caviar fishing companies. She saw to it that none of her clients were prosecuted for non-payment of taxes. Drinking orgies were staged in the district court room. The judge's bench was turned into a bar. Officials are said to have forced their secretaries and typists to attend the wild parties on penalty of being fired.

Official Scandals.
Discovery of a similar scandal in the city of Stalin in the Don basin led to the arrest of 60 officials. In Minsk 41 officials including the district judge and three assistant prosecuting attorneys, one of whom is a woman were arrested. In Tverskaya county, adjacent to the chairman of village soviets who were elected by the people, were removed in recent months for malfeasance or for failure to carry out instructions of the Communist party. In addition 999 other officials lost their jobs.

If the courts convict the defendants of charges on which they are being held for trial at least 50 of the arrested officials will be executed.

Graft has long been a curse of Russia. Before the revolution it is said no factory owner could get a freight car to ship his goods in less than three weeks unless he slipped some money to the railroad yardmas-ter. The Soviets through retaining the death penalty on bribery and graft in extreme cases have succeeded in curbing the practice but have by no means wiped it out.

Distinctive Clothes

Lucien Lelong declares that to the couturier of feminine clothes and feminine personality there is no more valuable research than attending fashionable events.
Here women appear side by side, and each is putting her best face forward. The curious fact is that the women most remarked and admired are those who seem to be aiming at inconspicuousness in their dress and every detail of their toilette.

Their Hope Falls

Mrs. George Bromley, top, and George Bromley, below, of Victoria, B. C., parents of Lieut.
Harold Bromley, have been helping their son prepare his attempted flight from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokyo, Japan, only to see all their plans dashed to earth when his plane failed to lift the enormous load of gas when he tried to take off.

Butler Assumes Post In Farrell

New Castle Man Takes Up New Duties At Farrell
Plant

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 2.—With a record of 33 years' efficient and loyal service with the American Sheet & Tin Plate company, with a reputation for a fine brand of civic service, John
A. Butler, former manager of the New Castle works of the company, on Thursday assumed full charge of the Farrell tin mill plant, succeeding Thomas O'Brien, new superintendent of the Gary works, largest in the world. The new Farrell plant superintendent, after greeting assistants and employees, immediately went into the plant to survey his new charge.

He found all departments in fine running order, and spent a busy day looking over equipment, including the new tin house which is being built to replace the one recently destroyed by fire. It took little time for Superintendent Butler to acquaint himself with the working of the local plant for his experience covers every phase of the industry.

Superintendent Butler was cordially greeted by employees at the Farrell plant. They found him a man of genial nature, who promises to enjoy the same high popularity that was Superintendent O'Brien's.

The new tin mill chief comes here with an enviable record. He started work in the New Castle works as a hot mill man and gained his present high position through efficient and loyal service to the company. Except for two months his entire career in the industry was spent in the New Castle works.

That Superintendent Butler will take an active interest in civic enterprises of the valley is taken for granted as he used his influence in many community projects while residing in New Castle.

Superintendent Thomas O'Brien, who left his local post this week, on Thursday took charge of the Gary works, after bidding goodbye to his host of friends in this valley.

Washington County Farmers Suffer

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 2.—Reports from all over Washington coun-has already wrought damage to crops in the greater portion, although in the northern section, where there has been more rain, reports are more encouraging. In the central and southern sections, oats, potatoes, corn and garden vegetables have received serious set-backs. Some sections of Greene county will suffer an even greater loss.

Summer Schools Attract Teachers

Total Teachers In Summer Schools At Present Numbers 16,215

ONE FOURTH SEEK HIGHER TRAINING

HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—Reports received in the teacher bureau, Department of Public Instruction, indicate that approximately 25 per cent of all the teachers employed in the public schools of the Commonwealth are enrolled in the Pennsylvania colleges and universities approved by the State Council of Education for the preparation of teachers.

The demand for better prepared teachers and the desire on the part of teachers to secure higher forms of licenses have brought about this large enrollment, bureau officials said.

After September 1, 1932, all new entrants into the teaching service in the secondary field will be required to have four years of post high school preparation. This requirement is not retroactive and does not affect teachers now in service.

Many teachers now employed in the junior and senior high schools who have not completed four years of post high school preparation are securing this level of preparation in the summer schools.

Beginning teachers of art, music, home economics, commercial and physical education, after September 1, 1932, will be required to complete approved four-year curriculums. Teachers of these special subjects now in service are continuing their preparation to the college level to equal the requirements to become effective September 1, 1932, although the revised certification regulations do not require it.

The list below shows the enrollments in the Pennsylvania colleges and universities during the 1929 summer session.

Bomb Throwing In Chicago Increases

Sixty Bomb Outrages Already Reported Against 36 In Similar Period In 1928

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—More and bigger bombs appeared to be the aim of bomb throwers here this year. Police records show that sixty bombs have been thrown in Cook county since January 1, as against only 36 for the same period in 1928. The average for the bombing record so far during 1929 is one every two days.

A crime investigator reported that the average damage done by each bomb in 1928 amounted to $1,428, an increase of $688 over the individual damage last year. But no convictions for bombing are on record. Sixty per cent of the bombs were thrown in connection with racketeering or so-called business organizations, it was shown. At present 85 of these racketeers are in operation, a survey revealed. Twenty-five cases have been referred in the last six months to the racket court, of which 15 were held for the grand jury. Of these nine were indicted but none came to trial. Concluding the report states: "Publicity alone has been the weapon that has driven some racketeers out of business and so far it has killed 59 racketeers in Chicago. The law has killed only two and these were both in connection with federal cases."

Gifted Children Sleep Longer Than Others

(International News Service) STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Aug. 2.—Boy prodigies are more numerous than girl prodigies. Gifted children sleep more than the ordinary child. Genius is more common among the Jews than other nationalities. These are some of the conclusions arrived at today by Professor Lewis M. Terman of the Stanford University psychology department after an intensive study of 1,000 gifted children discovered by him eight years ago. Most of these prodigies Dr. Terman revealed are living up to promise and are providing valuable data for his third volume of the "Genetic Studies of the Genius" series, which he is completing for publication next year. Each of the 1,000 children selected by Terman for the study passed a test with an intelligence quotient of 130 points or above and only one out of every 200 examined by him and his assistants qualified as a gifted child.

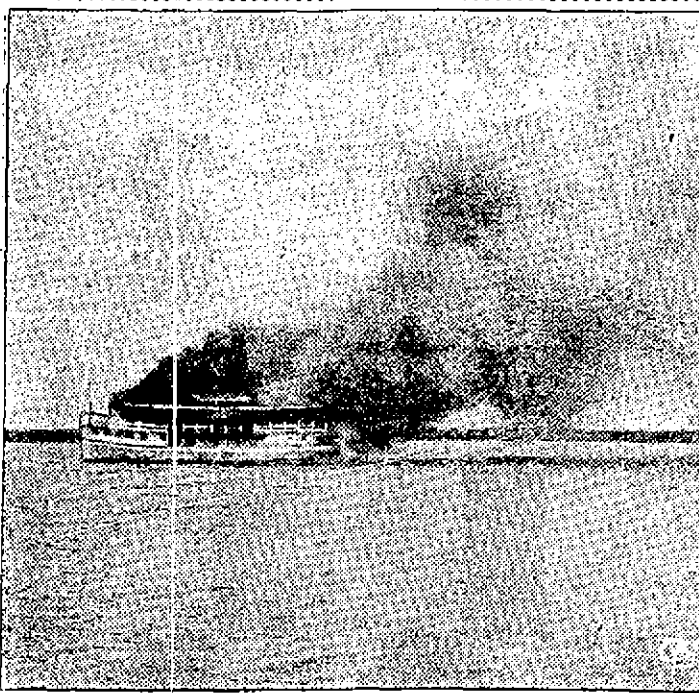

Brewers' Academy Consulting Bureau

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"National Brewers' Academy" is the sign on the second story window of an old building in the Chelsea district. In charge of the office where once a busy group of sons of brewery owners and superintendents gathered to learn the fine art of brewing is a young man of obviously German extraction. "They legislated our school out of existence but there are more persons who want to know how to make beer than there were before prohibition. "However, we are not interested in home brewers and all we do now is act as consulting experts to the near beer makers, who are trying to make their beer taste as good as possible."

Bo-Broadway by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A New York firm of chemists received in the last month hundreds of mail order requests from all parts of the United States and Canada, for a certain cell salt, widely employed in cases of mental disorder. An investigation revealed that an editorial writer on a cheap monthly magazine devoted exclusively to flaming love yarns had advised the use of the remedy to readers suffering from any sort of mental or nervous twist. The best place in the world to advertise a nostrum for sick brains is a cheap magazine that specializes in love. An over-dose of the erotic and you have neurotic—at least that's what the Docs at the Bughouse say.

Clifton Webb and Libby Holman, who figure in the notorious "Moaning Low" interlude, as stark an exposition of primitive what-not as Broadway has witnessed in many a long year, hail respectively from Indianapolis and Cincinnati. One of the producers is the product of a tank town in Missouri, and his partner is a native of Moline, Ill. And the saps who support the show are not delicatessen, eating, subway-riding, east-side, west-side N'yawkers. They're the bunch from Black Hum, spending a brief vacation in the metropolis.

NOT LIKE EARL

Earl Carroll has a bathtub scene in his "Sketch Book" revue. That isn't like Earl. Whether or not your heart thumps for him—if you think of him at all—you have to give him credit for originality. That's why the bathtub scene is all wet. After the exhibition he made of himself on his journey to Atlanta penitentiary—so long as he wants to inject the subject of bathtubs—he might fittingly adorn the stage of his theater with a hospital cot and a few tent towels. We're willing to forget it, of course. But every time he brings the subject up, we're just naturally going to get nasty! Eh, wet?

SUBWAY GIRLS

The best looking girls in New York are to be found in the ranks of those who travel in the subway morning and evening, to and from work. The average subway guard in the course of one day's labor rubs elbows with more downright pluperfect female pulchritude than P. O. Ziegfeld, the Glorifier, encounters in a year. Park avenue can never compete with The Subway in the matter of beauty. Prancing the polished majesty all night, having the French maid fetch coconuts to the side of your Simmons, somewhere around noon, and lying back in a boudoir cap perusing a stack of darning letters from fashionable tradesmen has a very discouraging effect, in the long run, on Miliady's epidermis. Having to get up every morning and hustle out to work is the best little complexion cozier on earth. If you don't believe it, ask the last millionaire who married his stenog.

Nine Entered In National Air Race

(International News Service) ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2.—Nine contestants are entered in the National Aero-nautical Association's International balloon race, which is to be held here on September 23, according to latest reports. The contestants entered thus far who will race for the Gordon Bennett trophy are two from Germany, two from Belgium, one from Argentina, one from Denmark and three Americans. More entries are expected. This will mark the second time the balloon race, which has been held in the Balkans a little less proximity. Louis. The first time was in 1907.

Congress To Seek To Prevent Future Maritime Disasters

Will Make Demand For Rigid Enforcement Of Load Line Tests For All Ships

Congress Will Get New Recommendations Of Steamboat Inspection Service

By WILLIAM S. NEAL, International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—New efforts will be launched when congress reconvenes to bring about enactment of legislation to prevent another Vestris disaster which cost more than 100 lives when the Lamport and Holt liner sank off the Virginia Capes last November it was learned today.

The first step will be the presentation of demands upon the outfit bureau for funds to make possible the enforcement of load line tests against all ships operating between the United States and foreign nations. Estimates are understood to have been prepared by the department of Commerce Steamship Inspection Service.

Nothing Been Done. Publication of the report of the British Board of Trade condemning American agents of the Vestris, disclosed that thus far virtually nothing has been done to prevent a similar disaster.

Despite the widespread cries for punishment of those responsible for the disaster and exhaustive investigations congress has taken no action as a result of the Vestris sinking.

Although load line legislation was enacted which prohibits the loading of a ship beyond the safety point congress attached a "joker" which has thus far nullified its effect officials said. The legislation applies only to ships traveling between this and foreign countries, does not become effective until 1930 nearly two years after the Vestris sinking and no funds have been provided to make it effective.

At present officials said load line laws of other nations apply to most ships operating on the high seas between this and foreign countries. The Vestris escaped these regulations because she was operating to South American ports.

Recommendations of the Steamboat

Inspection service which have been ignored by congress in the past will be submitted again.

A dash of sugar does not make vegetables sweet

A little sugar develops the natural vegetable flavors

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made that two groups of women cooking experts recently discovered the old secret of using a dash of sugar in the cooking of vegetables (preferably cooked in little water). It should be made clear to everyone that the purpose of using this small amount of sugar is not to make the vegetables taste sweet. That is not the case at all. As one of the women—a nationally known authority—says, the sugar not only increases the delicacy of flavor but it brings out all the distinctive qualities of the vegetables. She adds that a dash of sugar restores the freshness of flavor, in a large measure, to vegetables that have become slightly wilted, and it helps to heighten the color of the vegetables.

No one would advise making vegetable foods taste sweet. This proper use of sugar does not do that. The remarkable thing about a little sugar is that it develops the natural flavors of the foods and that it blends and accentuates the other seasonings used.

Now that the skinny, scarecrow figure is unfashionable, women will be more willing than ever to follow the dictates of medical science and to encourage the members of their family to eat a varied, balanced diet. Most unflavored foods are bland and unpalatable. A little sugar makes fresh and stewed fruits, cereals, milk desserts, cooked vegetables and some meats delicious to the taste. Sugar is nature's perfect flavor. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Probe Shooting Of Colored Boy

Coroner's Jury Releases Nine Year Old Youth In Case

Verdict rendered late Thursday afternoon by the coroner's jury sitting at the inquest held in the county court house in the case of Dennis Gunn, aged 10, who was shot and killed Tuesday at his home in Union township by David Russell Jones, aged 9, exonerated the little Jones boy of any intent to kill the Gunn boy.

He was immediately released to the custody of his grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Greaves, of Miller avenue, who stated that she would get him to his parents at the earliest possible moment. He had only been brought here a few days previous to the shooting, she stated following the inquest.

The verdict rendered by the jury was to the effect that "Dennis Gunn came to his death as a result of a gunshot wound caused by a shot fired from a shotgun in the hands of David Russell Jones. We, the jury, believe that there was no intention on the part of the Jones boy to shoot the Gunn boy and that he did not realize the danger in handling firearms."

Following the rendering of the verdict, Mrs. Lucy Greaves, grandmother of the Jones boy, expressed her sorrow over the occurrence and informed the father of the shooting victim, that she would help him bear the expense incurred, as far as she was able.

Coroner J. B. Caldwell called upon to testify were Sheriff H. M. Reynolds, John G. Gunn, father of the little boy who was killed; Jewell Gunn, an older sister of Dennis Gunn, the shooting victim, and David Russell Jones, who did the shooting.

There was little new brought out in the testimony. Sheriff H. M. Reynolds told of answering the call to the Gunn home and finding Dennis Gunn lying under a tree with a newspaper over his face. Dr. C. O. Dickey was there and said the boy was dead. John Gunn, an older brother of the victim, had informed him that David Russell Jones had shot Dennis. David Russell Jones was gone but he learned that he had been apprehended by the state police and been taken to their headquarters. He had gone there and the Jones boy had denied the shooting and insisted that John Gunn had done it. He and the coroner had brought the two boys together later at the Gunn home and each told their stories and how Russell had finally admitted shooting the gun from the front bedroom window. He told of the hole in the screen made by the shot fired from that room estimated the distance to where Dennis Gunn was when shot at thirty feet.

On cross examination, the sheriff stated that he had found the shotgun upstairs standing against a wall with one hammer up and a good shell in that side, while an exploded shell was found in the other barrel and under the hammer that had been pulled.

John G. Gunn, father of Dennis Gunn, testified that he had never owned a gun and that the gun that had caused his son's death, was one that he borrowed. He had last used it on the fourth of July and had placed it unloaded in a corner of the upstairs bedroom and the shells in a drawer. The gun was twelve gauge and the screen brand new. He said the front door of the home had been locked and that the children had been able to get upstairs by raising a front window. He was of the opinion that the Jones boy was ignorant of the danger of using the gun and stated that the hole in the screen was such as to indicate that the gun had pointed direct at his son who was killed.

Jewell Gunn was then called and stated that she had been at home on the day of the shooting. That the boys had been at the barn and then came to the house to play tag. She had locked the front door, while going to get some coal and while doing so, heard the report of the gun. She came to the front of the house, found Dennis had been shot and started to run for assistance. All the children went with her, David Russell Jones

Compulsory Examination Follows Failure Of Few To Care For Automobiles

FOR OWNERS AND DRIVERS

Hundreds of queries are received daily by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, at Harrisburg, relating to road rules and the Motor Code. In the belief that the questions and their answers will solve problems which puzzle motorists in general, Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon of the Motor Vehicles Bureau has decided to publish a number of them in this newspaper each week. The information herein contained is official.

Q. Why should I be compelled to have my car examined. In the papers I see that compulsory examinations must be made between October 1 and November 15. This is impossible so far as I am concerned because my machine is gone over regularly by a mechanic.

A. What you say being true, the compulsory examination should not be a hardship. The reason the Legislature asked this law is because a great many owners of motor cars persist in neglecting them, as a result there are accidents because the important parts of machinery fail at a critical moment. To neglect a motor car is an offense of omission.

Q. I have lost my owner's license card, and ask that you send another to me.

A. Before we can forward a duplicate registration card, you must make application on our No. 109, giving the description of your motor vehicle, and submit to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Harrisburg, with a fee of fifty cents. This should include the make and manufacturer's numbers, and the number of your 1929 registration plates.

Q. I should like my garage to be made an official examining station during the compulsory inspection period.

A. Application forms will be mailed to those who were appointed as official inspection stations for the campaign which was conducted in April of 1928 and on receipt of the applications in this bureau. Investigation will be conducted by the members of the Highway Patrol and the official stations appointed on the recommendation of the Patrolman who makes the examination. If your garage was not an official inspection station in April, 1928, you should communicate with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Harrisburg, requesting an application form.

Q. Is it legal to deduct 1% from all gasoline tax paid; this allowance being made for evaporation and shrinkage when gasoline is put into the ground.

A. There is no allowance for shrinkage of gasoline.

Q. I want to transfer the title of an automobile, but I am unable to find the former owner, who has left the country. What shall I do?

A. When a motor vehicle is purchased and it is absolutely impossible for the purchaser to locate the prior owner, we can only suggest that the former owner, an attorney as to how to obtain indisputable ownership of the vehicle through operation of the law.

Q. Although I have been driving a motor car for 13 years, I recently saw a copy of the motor code for the first time, and discovered that I probably do not have the hearing required by law. I should like to know whether I am qualified, or whether I shall surrender my operator's license.

A. We suggest that you have a doctor examine you, and if your hearing is two per centum of normal, as required by the motor vehicle code, the operator's license will be approved.

Q. I own a sedan and work some distance from my home. May I carry passengers to the same mill and charge them for the service, or if I do not make a regular charge, is it all right for me to have a private understanding covering the remuneration?

A. A person operating a passenger vehicle may carry people to work, but a fee cannot be charged unless a certificate of public convenience is held by the owner of the vehicle. We advise you to communicate with the public service commission, Harrisburg.

Q. A Justice of the peace levied a fine and cost of $13.50 against my boy friend. This was an unreasonable, unjust action. How can my friend recover the money?

A. This bureau has no jurisdiction over fines levied by the minor judiciary. Inasmuch as you desire redress we suggest that you consult a lawyer.

Q. Will you give me the name of a bonding company which will handle my bond as a gasoline vendor?

A. This bureau is unable to furnish you with the names of bonding companies. However, only corporate surety bonds of a company licensed to do business in Pennsylvania will be accepted.

Q. Did the recent legislature pass a law making hitch-hiking illegal?

A. As introduced early in the session, the motor code contained such a provision, but it was taken out, and there is now no provision against the practice you mention.

Q. We have discontinued handling gasoline as a dealer, and will handle it in the future as a consumer. The tax will be paid to the refining company from whom we purchase the gasoline. The only gasoline that will be used from our supply other than that for our own cars will be that used by some of our employees, and deductions will be made from their pay checks.

A. Since you purchase gasoline only for your own use and a four (4) cent tax is paid to the person from whom it is purchased, it will not be necessary for you to procure a liquid fuel permit nor to file any bond with this department. If your purchase of gasoline is made from a company outside of Pennsylvania it will be necessary for you to have a liquid fuel permit and pay tax to the Pennsylvania department of revenue.

Q. Being a newcomer in Pennsylvania, I write to inquire why I am required to have a certificate of title for my automobile, and what the purpose of this title is.

A. First, because the Pennsylvania vehicle code, which is the state's motor law, prohibits any resident from owning a motor vehicle unless a certificate of title shall have been obtained, and this title is a prerequisite to registration or the issue of license plates. Second, the certificate of title is in effect a deed to a piece of property, and motor vehicles may not be bought, sold or ownership in them transferred, without the assignment and passage of the title. The title therefore constitutes a protection against the purchase of stolen cars, and since all titles are recorded in the bureau of motor vehicles, if your car is stolen and the thief resists to it, it cannot be disposed of nor registered in Pennsylvania until the title is clear. All applications of this nature are first checked against the title records before being considered, and we believe that when a similar law is effective throughout the United States automobile thefts will be reduced to a minimum. A title law does not necessarily decrease thefts, but it does limit the market for stolen cars which brings about virtually the same result.

Gaston Post Will Not Meet Tonight

Time Of Meeting Changed At Last Meeting Of Post, To Second Tuesday

No meeting of the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, will be held until Tuesday evening, August 13th, as a result of the change in meeting night voted at the last meeting.

Heretofore, the post has been meeting on the first and third Fridays of each month. The night was changed at the meeting last month to the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has also changed the meeting night of the post, and instead of meeting on the first and third Mondays of each month, will meet on the first and third Wednesdays. Commission Orders Building Of Bridge (International News Service) HARRISBURG, Aug. 2.—The Public Service Commission has ordered reconstruction of a bridge on state highway route 85 where it crosses the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad near Albion, Erie county. The commission fixed August 1, 1930, for completion of the improvement.

The cost of the proposed improvement is estimated at $27,870. The department of highways will do the work on the new bridge and the Pennsylvania railroad was directed to contribute to it $13,000 of the cost and Erie county $4,500. Estimated property damages of $345 also will be paid by the county.

Moscow Bakers Make Bread; Tacks In It

(International News Service) MOSCOW, Aug. 2.—Half a dozen employees of a co-operative bakery have been arrested on charges of attempted manslaughter for supplying a hospital with bread containing tacks. Hospital authorities reported the first case of finding tacks in the bread to the health department but passed it off as an accident. When the accident repeated itself twice more however the health department called the police. The arrested bakers confessed putting the tacks in the hopes of baffling physicians attending patients who might swallow the tacked bread.

Beauty Parlor Now Has Dog's Laundry

(International News Service) SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—"Here's your dog, back from the laundry all nice and clean!"

M. J. O'Rourke runs a beauty parlor and laundry here for cats and dogs—with even a few canaries accommodated once in a while.

It's the dogs though who furnish most of the business.

There are many stylish owners of stylish canines who not only send in their pets for a bath once a week, but also have them come in once a month or so for a manicure.

Trimming and polishing the nails of dogs' feet keeps O'Rourke and his assistants busy in one part of the beauty parlor.

Cats also get manicured. Many women bring in their kittens to have their claws dulled so that they cannot scratch so easily. Sometimes canines get manicured but that is infrequent.

"You'd be surprised at the results that come from thorough bathing and cleaning."

"Steam baths are popular with the bow-wows. Many of them don't thing so much of the manicure as the owners, however. You've got to watch out, and often muzzle the dogs when this is done."

It's easy for a great man to travel alone. He's so polite nobody realizes he is a great man.

Sunrise Tours Now Rival For Paris By Night

By ALICE LANGELEIR
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 2.—Paris at sunrise is the newest slogan of a popular travel bureau in the City of Light which will help hurried tourists to see more than ever during a very short stop-over. It will not be a very serious rival of the popular "Paris by Night" tour of Bohemia and Montmartre, because the tourists who spend their evenings in that manner are generally late risers.

Getting down to a startling point at five o'clock is not such a pleasant proposition, but once there and within the comfortable big motor-coaches, everyone decides that it is well worth the trouble. In the pink light of the rising sun, the Louvre becomes a veritable Arabian Nights' palace and the gardens of the Tuilleries, the great-bordered Champs Elysees, stretching for nearly two miles up to the Arc de Triomphe, a real bit of Fairyland.

French railroad officials announce that in the future they will inaugurate a large number of cars for ladies only. They will be placed immediately after the baggage luggage dear to the hearts of the fairer sex. A coffee will cut and wave while the women ride and there will be tables for reading and writing. The officials add that they were obliged to install these luxuries in order to persuade the women to use these cars. Up to the present time, there have always been a small number of compartments where no men were allowed, but from the emptiness of them one would almost believe that the women were not wanted either. No smoking was allowed here.

The room in which the little Prince Imperial took his first riding lessons, formerly a part of the old stable, has recently been opened as a new show-room of the Louvre Museum. In 1865 a tribune of ornamental ironwork occupied one end of the huge hall and there the Empress Eugenie occasionally used to sit and watch her son take his exercise.

After the Second Empire the hall remained empty. It has been carefully transformed and is now one of the lightest and airiest rooms of the Museum.

Paris wine merchants have been celebrating their tri-centenary. Just three hundred years ago, according to the records on file in the capital, the festival of the merchants of Paris granted the concession of corporation to the corner of wine-sellers. They had the standing of a guild, with the additional privilege of being able to pack arms and bring forth their very own royal coat.

The old banner, which was revived during the festival, is a ship of silver on a cloth of blue, six smaller ships floating at the larger vessel's side and behind all a large bunch of grapes.

Hopping about on his good leg a young and courageous doctor of Villefranche-sur-Saone saved the life of one of his patients who was stricken with a hemorrhage in the physician's office. He ran downstairs to a drug-gest to obtain what was needed and returning slipped and broke his leg. Realizing the need of haste, he got up and managed to hobble back to the office and stop the bleeding.

Another memorial which interests Americans will soon be set up at Brast in commemoration of the part played by the United States navy during the Great War. It will be eighty feet high overlooking the harbour.

Has an actress the right to refuse to play the role of an innocent little "dumbell" if she does not feel like one?

Mlle. Maguy Werna is being sued for breach of contract because she pre-emptorily quit the role in a musical comedy of a good little girl who believed everything everybody told her and never slayed out after dark.

"The role of a 'dumbell' does not fit my nature," averred Mlle. Werna and she has asked the judges to prove that it does.

Meanwhile she is playing in another operetta, her role being that of an insidious charmer who tries vainly to vamp the male lead, whom the librettist portrays as a "dumbell."

Flies 'Round The World On 330 Gallons Of Gas

BARON KOENIG WARTHAUSEN

A DOLLAR AND EIGHTY FROM FRISCO TO LOS ANGELES—NOT BAD

By Central Press.

TUCSON, Ariz., July 31.—Around the world on 330 gallons of gasoline. Whether that be a record, Baron Koenig Warthausen, the youthful German aviator who reached the Pacific coast from China the other day, certainly knows a few things about economical travel.

He is vagabonding around the world in a small two-cylinder monoplane of German make. He landed at San Francisco recently preparatory to flying across the United States on his aerial jaunt and flew to Los Angeles using gasoline and oil worth $1.80.

Like Motorcycle.

The little engine pops like a motorcycle motor—and the plane sails at 70 miles an hour through the air.

Baron Koenig started his world tour by flying 1,800 miles non-stop from the German capital to Moscow and won a $2,000 prize as the outstanding German amateur. Then he decided to go on and will have flown 16,500 miles by the time he reaches the Fatherland again next month.

The flight is an object lesson to those who attempt long trips. Baron Koenig has not flown over water. He started the trip as a sport flight to see the world and has taken a year to do it.

His trail led him from Berlin to Singapore the point farthest distant then across the Pacific to California. He stopped at Tucson as his first point outside California. From here he flew on to eastern cities before embarking again for Europe.

The youthful baron flies the plane when fancy dictates. His engine pulls his plane 50 miles on one gallon of fuel and the oil consumption is negligible.

When ready to hop off for another point he warms the engine, throws two suitcases and his Siamese cat into the rear cockpit and up he goes.

The baron had flown for 17 hours when he started the world tour. That experience he got during a college vacation three years ago. Twice the German government telegraphed him to abandon the jaunt—and twice he refused preferring to prove the ease of such a flight.

Carries no Parachute.

He carries no parachute his theory being that his plane has such a low landing speed 20 miles an hour that he can land safely under any conditions.

Here the world sees a modest German youth anxious to explore the world and adopting the most conventional means to do it. Just past 23 years of age he plans another such flight next year. He expects to use the same ship.

Rather than his ability as a flier, he believes his command of German, French and English to be more important. He thinks he has talked his way around the world rather than flown.

Georgia Tobacco Auction July 23

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Aug. 2.—Eyes of the tobacco world are now focused on Georgia where planters already have begun curing their 1929 crop.

The Georgia markets, the first to open in this country, will have the first auction sales on July 23, and the prices the Georgia weed brings will be a fair indication of the demand for the "golden leaf" on the larger Carolina and Virginia markets which open later in the summer.

The date for the opening of the Georgia markets has been officially set as July 23 by the United States Tobacco Association, which sets the opening dates of all the belts.

More storm cellars have been constructed this year than in any past year.

Storm cellars have become a necessity with the many tornadoes occurring in Arkansas.

Fight White Plague With New Medicine

Salve Applied Externally Enables Blood To Fight Germ Of Tuberculosis

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Aug. 2.—Encouraging results in fighting the "white plague"—tuberculosis—by means of a new salve are reported by Dr. Ferdinand Mattausch, director of the tuberculosis clinic of the Vienna Street Railway.

According to Dr. Mattausch, the main danger of the tuberculosis germs consists in the fact they are surrounded by a thick armament of fat, so that the curative substances in the blood have a hard time getting at the germs themselves.

The salve which Dr. Mattausch has invented consists of similar substances as the fat of the tuberculosis germs. Applied externally, the salve is supposed to increase the blood's fat-destroying substance, called lipase, and whereby also increase the body's facilities for fighting the tubercular germs.

For this reason, says Dr. Mattausch, experiments on fifty children in danger of getting tuberculosis showed that all were able to fight off the plague.

Though Dr. Mattausch himself says that these experiments are in no way conclusive, he believes that the principle is right and that an entirely new method has been opened for fighting the dread disease.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 2.—The romance of the old Alamo, shrine of Texas patriotism, where Davy Crockett, Jim Bowie, Capt. Travis and their valorous band died to a man rather than surrender to the invading Mexican army, will live again on the screen under plans being formulated by David Wark Griffith, noted motion picture producer.

Griffith was here recently and announced that work on the filming of a gigantic picture portraying the birth of Texas will get under way soon. Griffith will write the story, he said. It is believed that the picture will include the whole lightning bolt drama of early Texas history, of the Alamo and its fall, the Goliad massacre where Texas prisoners were

Sun Tan Craze Being Overdone Scientist Says

Warning Issued By Doctor Against Acquiring Too
Sudden A Coat
Of Tan

GRAVE INJURY MAY RESULT FROM BURNS

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Beware of the "sun tan craze."
It's being overdone—dangerously so.
It's all right to become a sun-tan bronze adonis—or, at the very least,
the case may be—but if you must become one,
do so gradually.

This is the warning of Dr. Charles Frederick Pabst, chief dermatologist of the Greenpoint Hospital, who declares that any person who at one fell swoop acquires a severe case of sunburn has an excellent chance of acquiring a "wooden overcoat."

Fad At Beaches
The quick-tan fad at America's bathing beaches and summer resorts has had, in many instances, a disastrous after effect.

Dr. Pabst has become sufficiently interested in the matter to issue five rules for the guidance of the faddists, and others, to wit:

1. Acquire a coat of tan gradually by brief exposures to sunlight.
2. Do not sleep on the beach in the direct rays of the sun.
3. If your skin will not tan, you are a Helophobe and should avoid the direct rays of the sun.
4. When fishing or sailing do not forget that water reflects the ultraviolet rays of the sun.
5. In July and August protect yourself as much as possible from the direct rays of the sun, if you want to avoid illness from sunburn.

Many In Hospitals
"This sun-tan fad is being overdone," said Dr. Pabst, "and already hospitals are receiving many cases of severe sunburn. It would be well for all persons desiring a coat of tan to realize that there are certain persons, medically classed as "helophobes," who do not tan. They are exceptionally sensitive to the sun's rays and burn instead of tanning."

How About Miss '30?

Beauty Expert Predicts Pensive "Sweet Adeline" Type

ERNIE YOUNG

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Central Press Staff Writer
CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Miss 1930 will be a "Sweet Adeline" type, for you-I-pine kind of gal, with all the trimmings that go with the character, including long hair and a pensive look.
Ernie Young, theatrical producer, called the "Flo Ziegfeld of the midwest," vouches for this important advance tip, and in thirty-one years of passing on feminine pulchritude and prognosticating styles and manners, he never has been wrong yet—at least, so they say.

Right about face and Ernie will tell you all about it, and he ought to know, since in the interest of the theater and what-have-you, something like 500,000 girls, or from 12,000 to 15,000 a year, have come under his critical eye.
"The girl of next year will be an almost complete metamorphosis," Ernie declares. "She will be a madonna-faced sprite of the repressed type. But only outwardly.

"She will grow long hair, hide her cigarette and brazen manners and act the ingenuous jeune fille.

"Long hair is coming in because the miss of today has found that clipped locks militate against her both socially and in business. She has discovered also that she gets nothing by flaunting herself boldly before her elders.

"The dress Miss 1930 will wear will probably adopt a close-fitting line with the skirt coming just above the knees."

Costumes, Young said, will be loud and startling in color, although plain in design. Stockings will be predominantly flesh-colored.
Shoes are to be wild enough to occupy a paragraph all by themselves, if we may believe the theatrical producer. They will carry in so far as the ensemble is concerned, the idea that there's a little bit of bad in every good little girl. And they will be checkered riots.

Less Cosmetics
"There will be a noticeable decrease in the use of cosmetics," Ernie predicts. "Particularly will there be a much lighter technique with the lipstick. From the almost purple-colored lipstick of last year, the style in mouths will swing back to a natural.

"Powder will be used sparingly, according to indigestion, and scents and perfumes will be of delicate and subtle kinds."
Of course, smoking isn't going to be declared out, the producer said.
But it won't be done openly in taxicabs, restaurants and public places, at least not by the majority. Cigar smoking by girls, which increased this year, will not be among the fashioned accomplishments of Miss 1930. They are too hard on the lungs, it was found, and really no fun at all.

"Miss 1930 will take a considerably greater interest in business and the professions than her sisters of past years," Young promises. "The spirit of independence among women has been gaining ground. With a job, independence is assured and that's why more and more women are entering fields that formerly were looked upon as for men only.

Oh, for Independence
"Money, in hundreds of cases of working girls of my acquaintance, is little or no object. Independence is the thing they seek."

Exit the flapper, with her pineapple or windblown bob, her breezy, careless manner and disrespect for her elders. Good-bye gin flasks, too, and "pills" with or without corks.
Enter, the good-bad little girl, with appearances all to the good; the girl who is a reincarnation of "the flower o-o-o of MY HEART, sun-we-e-et ADELINE."

Bureau Of Aviation Created In Boston

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—A bureau devoted exclusively to the promotion of aviation has been created by the Boston Chamber of Commerce a leader in aviation development since 1922 and one of the most influential factors in the creation of the East Boston airport.

Theodore Holcombe an assistant in the civic bureau and long an aviation enthusiast has been appointed manager of the new bureau and will work in co-operation with the chamber's committee on aviation.

Due to the rapid development of interest in aviation the chamber of commerce has found itself called upon repeatedly to help in the promotion of aviation interests throughout New England. In addition to practical aid in the construction and development of municipal airports the aviation has been swamped by requests for information concerning the various phases of flying. The steadily increasing volume of aviation activities in New England has made the creation of an aviation bureau a necessity. Particular emphasis will be placed on air travel and all efforts are to be made to aid the advancement of this division of aviation.

The bureau has opened negotiations with the German-Lloyd line for a ship-to-shore airplane service. The service of the bureau will always be as the disposal of firms interested in the development of new airway passenger routes.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 2.—Elmer road tracks here. Today they were positive their guess was correct.

The automobile which the two young men were driving struck the tracks a foot higher than the street level, just as a freight train hove into sight. Worthington and Reid were hurled from the machine to the pavement and were picked up, dazed, just as the train hit the machine and demolished it, thereby assuring them they were correct in belief there was a crossing at that point.

STRIKERS GIVEN CHANGE OF VENUE

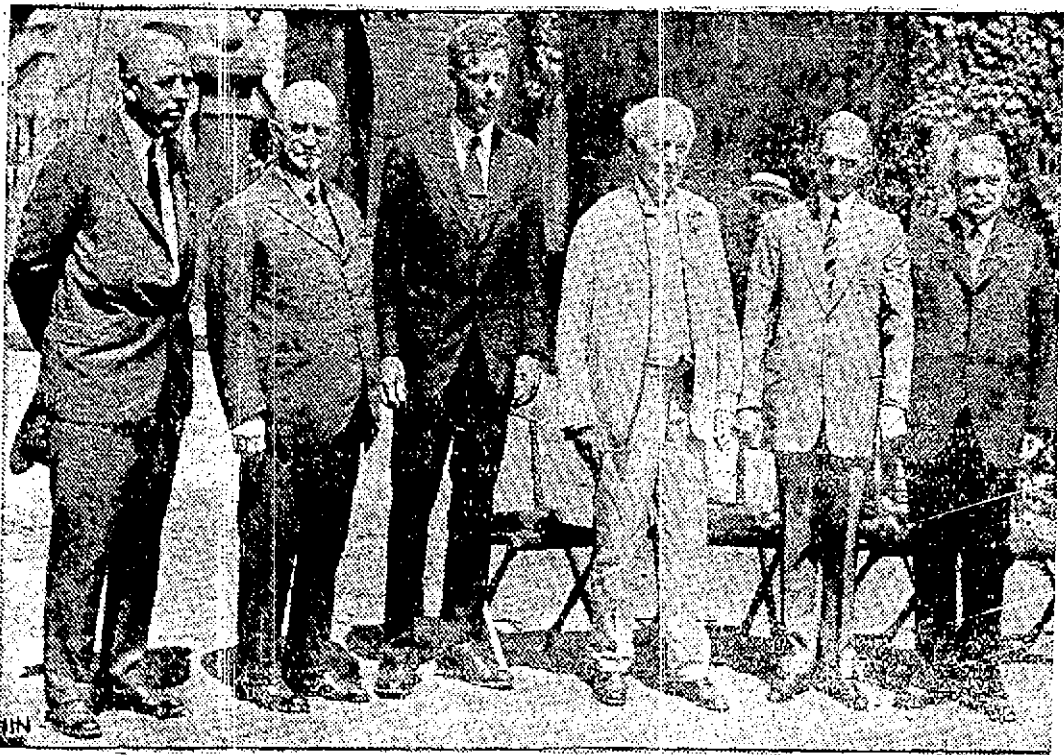

Having been granted a change of venue, 15 labor leaders held for the murder of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholt during a raid on the textile strikers' camp at Gastonia, N. C., claimed they had won their first step in the fight for freedom. The trial will be held at Charlotte. Photo shows the three women and three of the men held for Aderholt's slaying.

HOOVER WANTS MILLIONAIRES FOR DIPLOMATIC POSTS

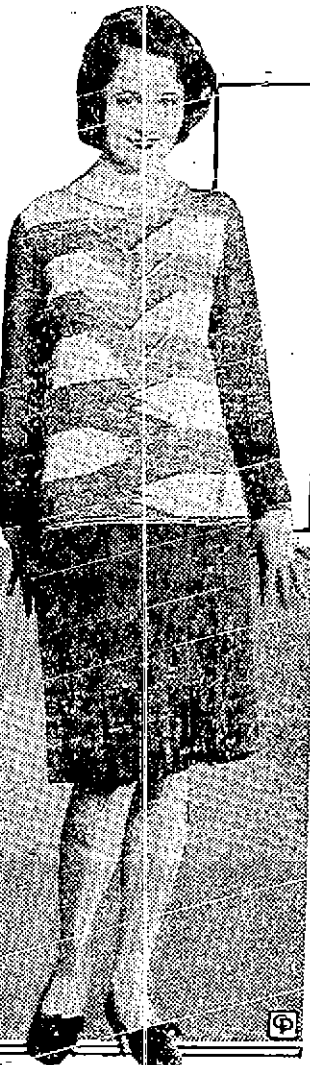

President Hoover is making his diplomatic appointments slowly and cautiously with a view to choosing several millionaires who will center their diplomatic efforts on adjusting the financial supremacy of the United States to the Hoover ideal of international goodwill. Senator Walter Edge (1) of New Jersey is authentically reported as the next ambassador to France; Ambassador Morrow (2) will be retained in Mexico without question; John N. Willys (3), Toledo automobile manufacturer, is almost certain to receive an important post; Eugene Meyer (4), former chairman of the War Finance corporation, is being considered for Germany; (5) Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker and intimate friend of Hoover, is being groomed for an ambassadorship, and Thomas W. Lamont (6) of the House of Morgan, has been urged for Rome or Madrid.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT—SOME FURS MAY BE IRONED

It may seem incredible, but, believe it or not, there are some furs that may be ironed to renew their gloss after being thoroughly drenched. The treatment of baby sea that has been wet and matted in a storm is illustrated. First shake out carefully and let dry, then place on ironing board and comb thoroughly with an aluminum comb in the opposite direction to which the hairs fall. Using a damp cloth brush the pelt lightly, just enough to dampen the tips, then iron upward with an iron of even temperature and moderate heat. Comb again, this time in the direction the hair falls, then repeat ironing process, following the natural flow of the fur. Lastly, bent the fur with a light stick to make it fluffy. All furs should be shaken thoroughly when wet, hung in a warm place to dry and brushed well when dry to renew the fluffiness.

House Regains Prestige With Farm Victory

Two Branches Of Congress Are Swinging Farther Apart, Observers Find

HOUSE EMERGING FROM INFERIORITY COMPLEX

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The growing jealousy between senate and house sometimes causes amusement and at other times alarm, but it is generally agreed that the two branches of congress are swinging further apart with time, and the situation promises to become more acute during the coming winter.

Many close observers of the tendencies of the national legislative body have sought out reasons for the condition. One veteran legislator declares that the primary reason is that the house is emerging from an inferiority complex.

Until the last session the house apparently had steadily been losing power and influence in the shaping of the nation's laws. The "popular branch" of the congress regained some of its prestige when it stood with President Hoover and won a victory in the farm bill fight.

The rise in the power of the senate has been attributed largely to the prominence given that body in the League of Nations fight and other disputes over treaties and nominations. The senate alone ratifies treaties and confirms presidential nominations.

Leaders Pass
The passing of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, Champ Clark and other picturesque speakers and leaders of the house, who ruled the body with iron but impressed their will upon presidents and the senate, also is said to have had its effect upon the house.

Speaker Nicholas Longworth and the house leaders have tread rather cautiously, their first concern apparently being to keep the house a harmonious body and let the senate alone. Within the last year, however, Speaker Longworth and other leaders have become more outspoken in their differences with the senate. The speaker instilled pride in the house when he was discussed as a presidential candidate with the declaration that he would rather hold the office of speaker than any other.

Some of the house members have begun to reassert an old claim that the house is the higher legislative body, because it is supposedly the direct representative of the people, and the senate is forbidden to originate bills levying taxes or appropriating money.

Recruiting Ground
The house, however, has proved a fertile recruiting ground for the senate. Surprise has been occasioned at the frequent criticism of the house by senate members, since many of them formerly served in it. Both Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, and Senator Norris (R) of Nebraska, who took verbal shots at the house in the last session, were house members.

Among the senators who "graduated" from the house are: Helph (D) of Alabama; Hayden (D) of Arkansas; Watson (R) of Indiana; Barkley (D) of Kentucky; Tydings (D) of Maryland; Gillett (R) of Massachusetts; Harrison (D) and Stephens (D) of Mississippi; Eaves (D) of Missouri; Norris (R) of Nebraska; Simmons (D) of North Carolina; Fess (R) and Burton (E) of Ohio; Sheppard (D) of Texas; Swanson (D) and Glass (D) of Virginia.

Several members of the house have announced that they would become candidates for the senate next year, among them Rep. Dickinson (R) of Iowa; White (R) of Maine and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick (R) of Illinois.

SUBSIDY OR TARIFF
We often wonder if it wouldn't be cheaper for a taxpayer consumer in the long run if Congress would put the infant industries on the payroll and give them regular salaries, instead of a commission on every sale.—Ohio State Journal.

Five Men Being Considered For Chairman Post

President Hoover Busy Selecting New Republican National Chairman

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Five men are being considered for the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee, it was stated at the White House Thursday in connection with recurring reports that Claudius Huston of Tennessee, would get the post.

Huston is among those being considered, but it was denied at the White House that President Hoover had definitely made a selection. Among the others being considered are George R. Woodruff, Chicago banker, and Ralph Williams of Oregon.

The selection of a new chairman ostensibly is made by the executive committee of the national committee, but actually the committee ok's any one the President may select.

The new chairman will be appointed in late September or early October, and will succeed Dr. Hubert Work, who resigned.

The Hand-Writing On The Wall

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"BE NOT DRUNKEN WITH WINE, WHEREIN IS RIOT." Ephesians 5:18

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
Daniel, who was a youth of nineteen years at the time he was carried away from Jerusalem to Babylon, is, at the time of our lesson, an old man of eighty-seven years. For nearly forty years he has held a very obscure position under the successors of Nebuchadnezzar, so that Belshazzar seems almost ignorant of him, despite Daniel's influence at court in that earlier day.

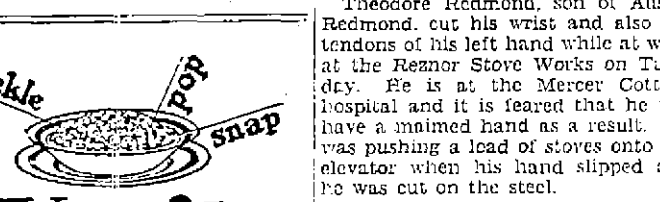

The folly of Babylon's dissolute ruler may be noted in the fact that, although he capital was being besieged at that very time by the armies of the rising power of Persia, yet Belshazzar was staging a drunken carousal in the palace with a thousand of his lords and princesses and the dissolute women of the court. Not satisfied with physical debauchery the governor resorted to the blasphemy of desecrating the sacred vessels of Jehovah which Nebuchadnezzar had brought from the temple at Jerusalem, drinking wine from them to his heathen gods to defy and mock the God of Heaven whom Nebuchadnezzar had learned to fear and reverence.

The Hand-Writing.
Suddenly, in the midst of the revelry and mockery and debauchery there appeared on the wall of the banquet hall the likeness of a man's hand writing in letters of fire which dazzled and terrified the revellers with their brilliance and mystery. "Then the king's countenance was changed and his thoughts troubled him, so that the joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees smote one against another." Thus the time changes when those who mock God in their revelry are brought suddenly to face His presence. The courage of blasphemy is soon turned into cowardice. Infidelity does not stand up under strain.

After seeking in vain for some solution of the mysterious hand-writing from the astrologers and wise men, the queen, who was probably Belshazzar's mother and the daughter of Nebuchadnezzar, reminded her terrified son of the aged Daniel and the wisdom he had displayed at the court of her father. So the prophet is sent for and some folks send for the preacher today who have no use for him at other times.

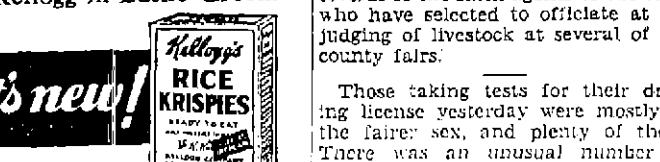

So the venerable prophet steps with calm dignity before the terror-stricken king and his fellow revellers, and spurning his offers of rich reward, agrees to interpret the letter of fire which still stand like a modern electric sign upon the wall.

Very frankly and fearlessly Daniel reminded the king of Jehovah's dealing with his grandfather, Nebuchadnezzar, in raising him to power above all other nations and how "when his heart was lifted up, and his mind hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and his glory taken from him," by sending upon him some affliction, giving him the obsession that he was a beast and

Mexico Soldier Marksmanship Much Improved

Improved Conditions And Equipment Have Produced Better Soldiers

EVEN REBELS ARE BETTER EQUIPPED

By HARRY BERGMAN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
NOGALES, Sonora, Mex., Aug. 2.— Traditionally inaccurate, the marksmanship of the Mexican soldier has nevertheless improved considerably within the past few years.
It is positively said—perhaps not without exaggeration—that the safe-est position on a battlefield in Mexico is squarely in front of the enemy's rifles and that men are usually killed by accident, rarely on purpose.
During the engagement at Naco, Sonora, in the present revolution only about twenty-five attacking rebels, out of an army of more than three thousands, were killed while the entrenched federalists lost no more than five men.
This, despite the fact that the battle raged from sunup until late afternoon.

In the siege of Mazatlan, one of the fiercest engagements of the revolution, involving some seven thousands troops, the most liberal estimate of casualties placed the dead at two hundred on both sides.

Casualties Padded
Only in the decisive operations on the Jimenez, Chihuahua, front did the estimated casualties total approximate figures of battle in portions of the world where more modern methods of warfare prevail. And, at that, subsequent development proved both federal and rebel statistical claims to be fantastically exaggerated.
Observers on the firing line at Naco, when the rebel General Faus-to Topete sent his columns into a determined push against the powerful federal fortifications, stated that there appeared to be greater danger from federal bullets at a distance of two thousand yards than at five hundred yards. This is explained by the entrenched soldiers' discipline to lift their heads above the breastworks in order to take aim.

Despite this incompetency with firearms, however, old-timers along the Mexican border aver that the Mexican soldier of today is a much better marksman, and a much better soldier, for that matter, than his predecessor of ten or fifteen years ago.
In those days, it is related, two opposing divisions would fire at each other all day without drawing a single drop of blood.

Marked Improvement
The marked improvement in Mexican soldiery is attributed to the fact that, within the past decade, military and political leaders have concentrated on building up an army, modeled after that of the United States and European nations. Systematic importation and manufacture of arms and ammunition has tended to modernize available means of warfare, while under the powerful impetus of such men as the late Alvaro Obregon, a heretofore unknown discipline has been introduced into the ranks. Pay for the Mexican soldier has been raised to a more attractive level, while the quality of provisions and clothing has been measurably improved.

Border old-timers say that the present rebel forces are better equipped and trained than the insurgent armies of any previous revolution. The rebel armies, it must be remembered, are composed mainly of members of the regular army who deserted their government to follow the revolutionary leaders in mutiny.

Goebel's Plane To Be Relic In Special Hangar

By SAM A. MINDELL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 2. — History will repeat itself August 17, the date which marks the second anniversary of Art Goebel's flight across the Pacific to Honolulu to win the $25,000 Dole prize.

However, historical enactment will not be another flight, but will consist in safely resting the Woolaroc. Goebel's plane which accompanied the flyer on the ocean flight, in a newly constructed hangar near Bartlesville, Okla., being built by Frank Phillips of the Phillips Petroleum company. It will remain there permanently as a "museum relic" portraying aviation development.

Goebel Enthused.
Goebel, who is conducting an aviation school in Kansas City, is enthused over the proposed hangar for his ship and is quite prepared to turn it over to Father Time.

The interest which Mr. Phillips is manifesting in offering a hangar for the plane can be traced back to the time when Goebel lacked the financial funds necessary to continue his flight and was replenished by the oil magnate with sufficient money to carry on. It fell to Phillips' lot to complete what he had helped to create.

With All Equipment.
The airship, as preserved, will carry all of the original equipment that it had when the historic trip was made. The radio, which at that time was the very latest model for control of flight through use of a radio beacon, is already obsolete. Some flying instruments that were used are already out of date. In a few years, the Woolaroc will be a target for human curiosity as much as an old stage coach which will join the airplane.

For Phillips will not confine his museum to the Woolaroc alone. It will contain many other interesting specimens including the old stage coach, built in Concord, Mass., in 1869, for stage line service in Montana at the time gold was discovered. It has covered approximately 525,000 miles during the years of its service. What an interesting spectacle the steel and stone hangar will have to offer, located on a 3,000 acre tract, and containing two modes of transportation separated by approximately sixty years. One a simple contrivance which carried struggling pioneers in quest of gold; another a complicated machine which made aviation history and aided in airplane development.

Woman, 92, Plans Airplane Jaunts

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Aug. 2.—A 92-year-old woman who "dared" her daughter to accompany her on an airplane flight and insisted on riding in an open plane because "you could see more out of it," is now eagerly planning further and longer air jaunts.

Mrs. Julia Lefever of Reading, rode out to an airport near Revere Beach with her daughter, Mrs. Leon Qurette. They had come merely to watch the planes take off and witness some of the maneuvers, but the idea of essaying a flight took a strong hold on the imagination of Mrs. Lefever. She told her daughter that "she would love to take a ride," and Mrs. Qurette, not to be outdone in courage by her white haired mother, arranged the trip. A cabin plane was offered but the non-agenarian aviatrix insisted upon an open style plane so that she could see more of the countryside.

The plane took off and followed the New England coast line for 10 minutes, swooping low over Revere Beach to give the bathers as well as the passengers a thrill. The plane then turned inland and flew low over several cities and towns which Mrs. Lefever was familiar, giving her an opportunity of seeing them from a new point of view.

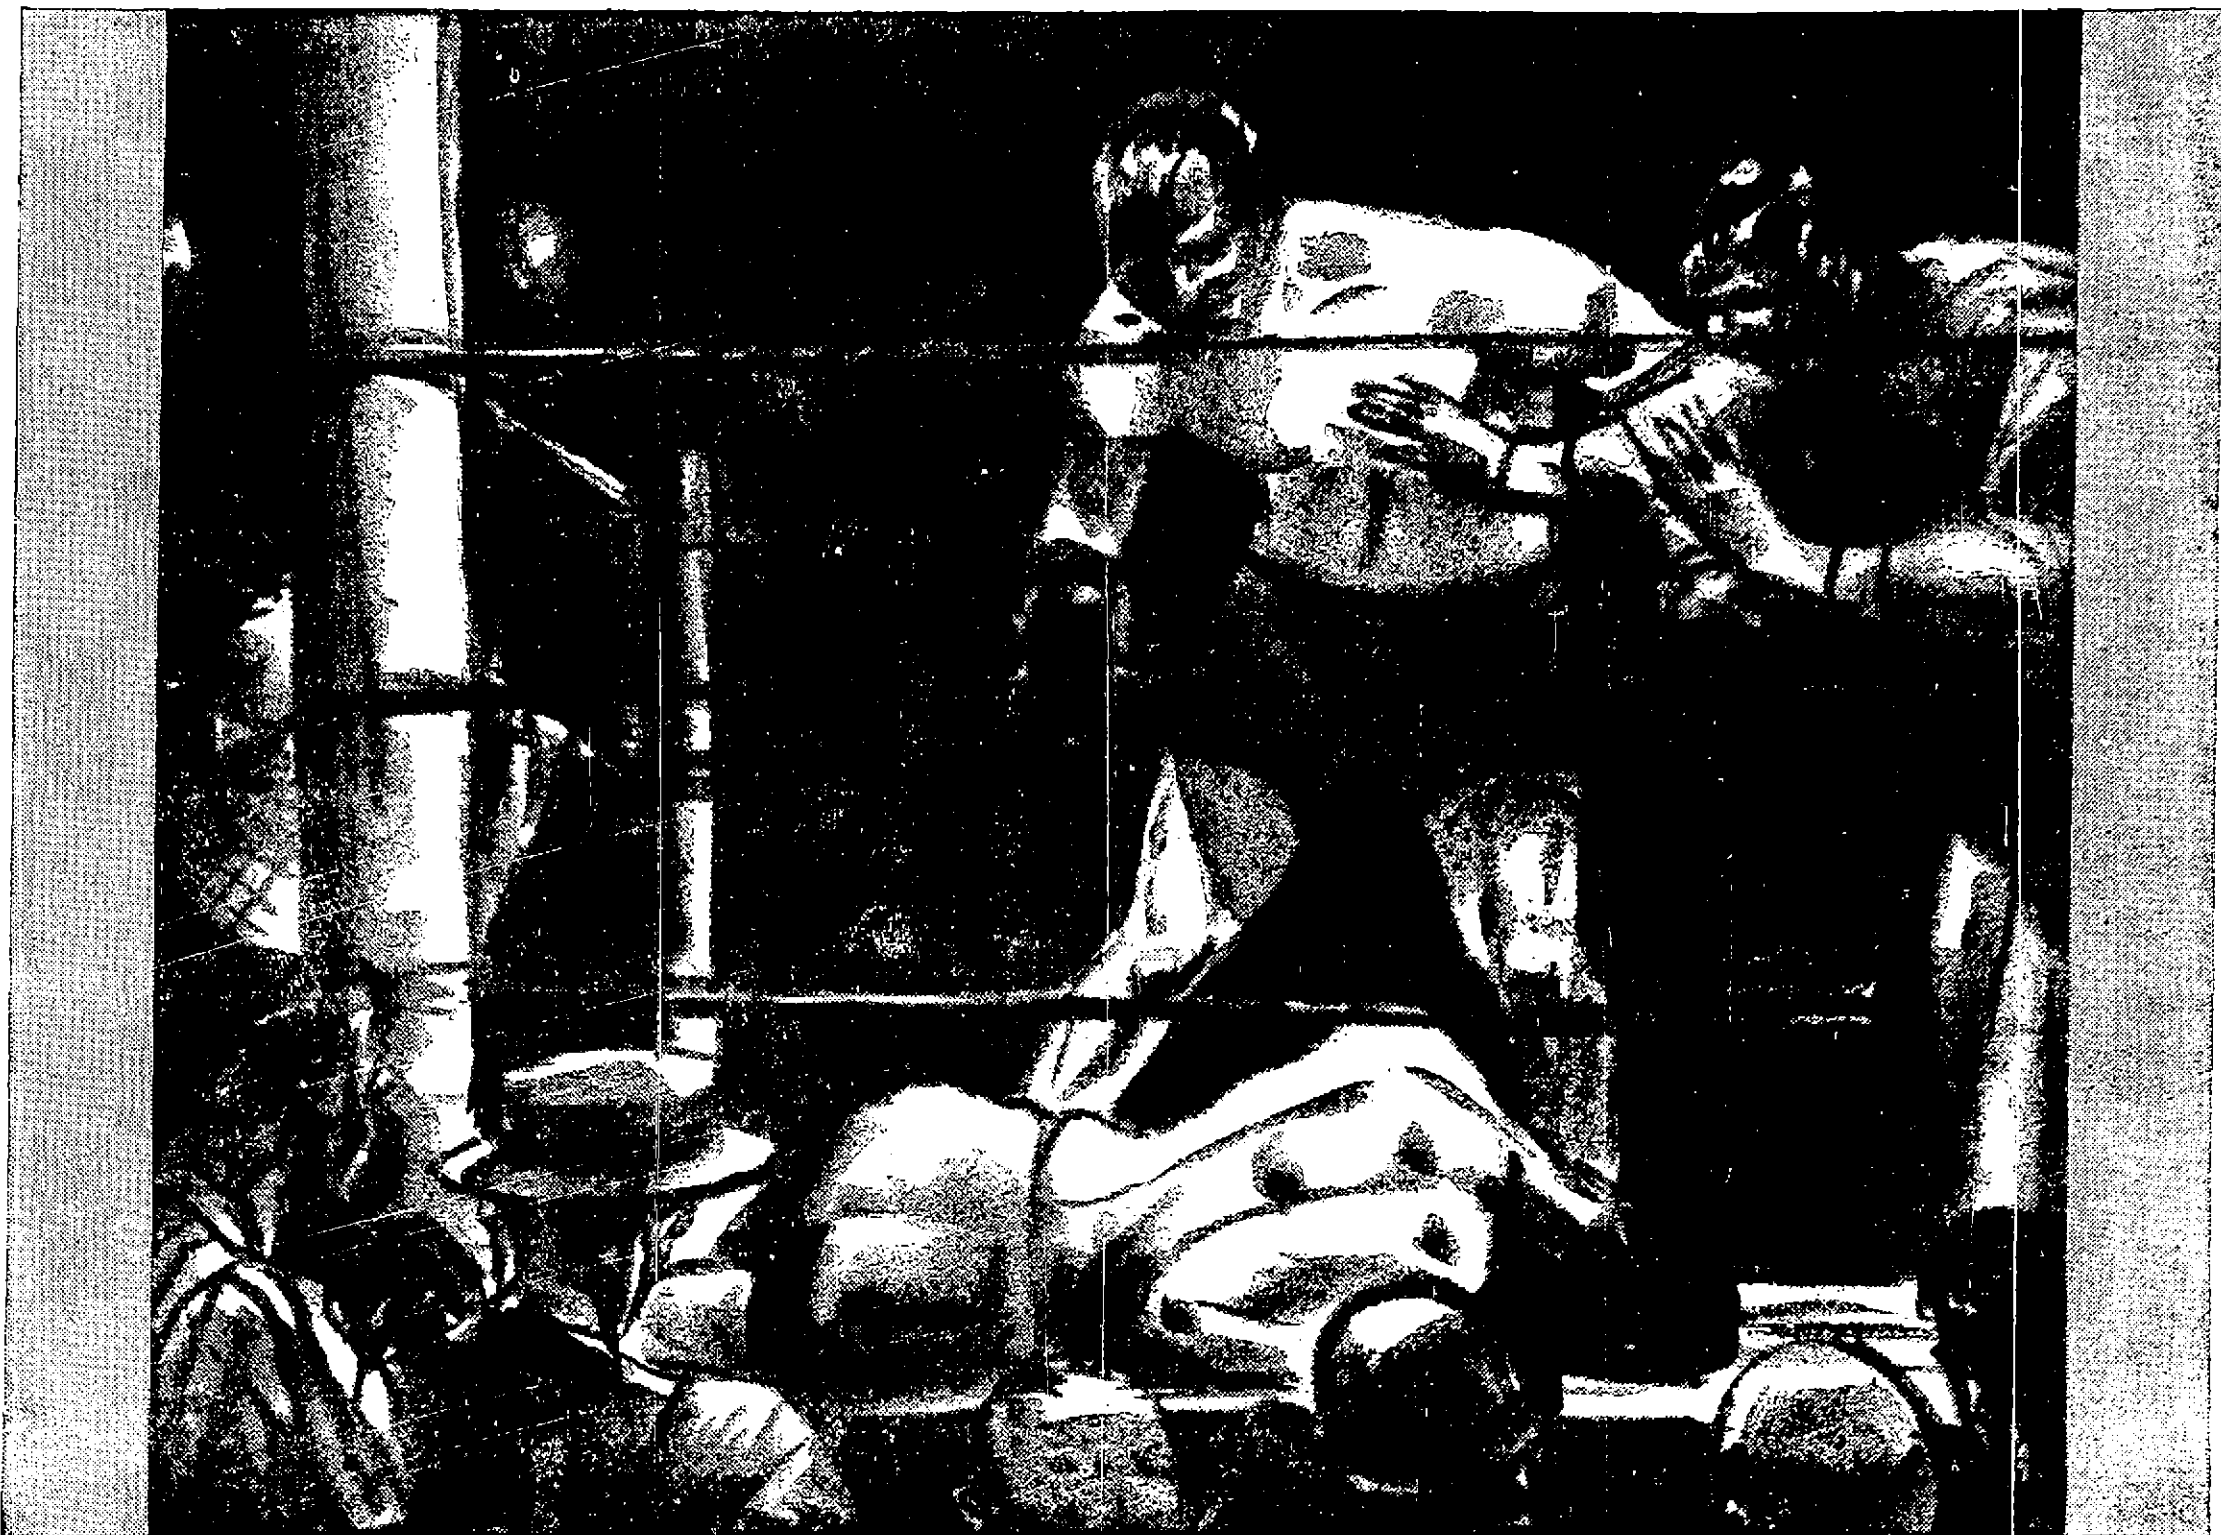

The ride proved all too brief for her taste and she announced that she was ready for another aerial jaunt at any time.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

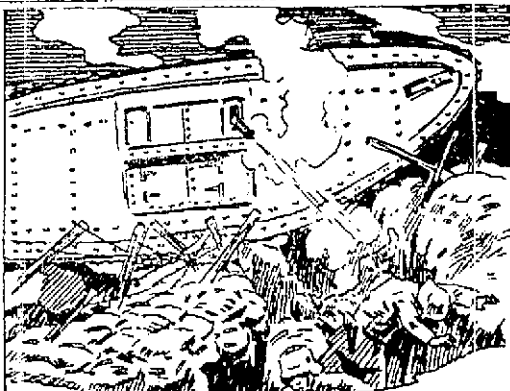

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of The World War 77--Fighting On The Somme

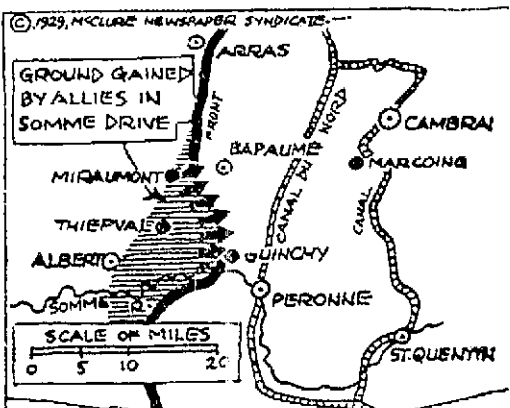

GERMAN PILL BOX, 8049-12007 MACHINE GUN NEST.

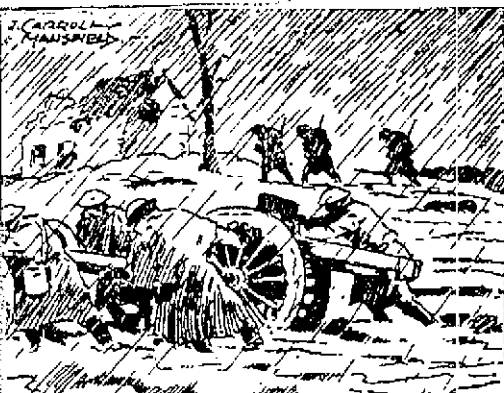

THROUGHOUT THE SUMMER AND EARLY FALL OF 1916 THE BRITISH AND FRENCH CONTINUED TO HURL THEIR FULL WEIGHT AGAINST THE ALMOST IMPREGNABLE DEFENSES OF THE GERMANS ON THE SOMME.

A MEMORABLE EVENT OF THE BATTLE OF THE SOMME WAS THE FIRST APPEARANCE (SEPTEMBER, 1916) OF "TANKS", INVENTED AND SECRETLY DEVELOPED BY THE BRITISH. THESE MECHANICAL MONSTERS CRAWLED OVER TRENCHES, SMASHED THROUGH ALL OBSTRUCTIONS AND DROVE THE STARTLED GERMANS FROM THEIR STRONGEST POSITIONS.

ON OCTOBER THE PROGRESS OF THE DRIVE BEGAN TO SLACKEN. THE BRITISH HAD NOT REACHED BAPAUME AND WERE TWENTY MILES SHORT OF CAMBRAI, THEIR GOAL. FOUR MONTHS OF FIGHTING ON THE SOMME HAD COST HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF CASUALTIES ON BOTH SIDES.

IN NOVEMBER, HEAVY RAINS TURNED THE FRONT INTO A SEA OF MUD AND THE GREAT DRIVE CAME TO A STANDSTILL. THE GAINS MADE BY THE ALLIES HAD BEEN SMALL AND RELATIVELY UNIMPORTANT, BUT THE EFFECT OF THE DRIVE HAD BEEN TO EXHAUST THE GERMANS AND SHAKE THEIR CONFIDENCE FOR THE FIRST TIME.

TOMORROW--ITALY INVADED.

BOBBY JONES TO DEFEND GOLF CROWN

Del Monte To Hold Tourney

Von Elm, Tolley And Dawson Have Been Entered In Meet

MANY NEW FACES AMONG ENTRIES

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—They let pebble beach have the national amateur golf championship with a sinking sensation in the region of the midriff. Today they are congratulating themselves over station whoop. The United States Golf association will be out in a day or so with the official entry list for the championship at Del Monte, Cal., September 2 to 7 and in point of quality and quantity as they say in the guide books it probably will be the greatest in all the history of the event.

The writer obtained a rough draft of the entries today and apparently everybody who happens to be anybody will be there. With a few notable exceptions such as Max Marston, Dexter Cummings, Edwirth Augustus, Roy Gorton and Dick Jones who are non-entrants, the only absences will be those who decide to stay away after being especially requested to do that. These roughly, will be 41 in number.

There were 211 entries, a new record when they closed the books for the event on July 23. There still are 211 entries but by the time the championship committee separates the chaff from the minkweed the official list is expected to be 170, another record.

Bourne to Play.
Of course it isn't really at all difficult to get a field of 170, composed largely of me, you and the other fellow although personally I have my price and I stick to it even if they go as high as a dollar-and-a-half. If they don't I'll fool them and go anyhow.

So will some of the other good ones, including the champions, present and past, of four great countries, America, England, France and Canada and practically the golfing strength of the nations in question. This man Jones for instance will go back to defend the title he has won four times in the last five years and the man who beat him in 1926, Von Elm will be there to see if he can't do it again.

He will have illustrious company in the persons of Cyril Tolley, current champion of England and in George Dawson the American whom Tolley defeated in the finals; also in Don Carriek and Ross Somerville, perennial Canadian champions and in Jack Westland and T. A. Bourne present and former holders of the French championship respectively.

Bourne, like Tolley, is a member of the invading British, the others including Major Guy Campbell, Lord Charles Hope and Eustace Storey, ex-champion of England.

Sweetser Coming.
Another ex-champion of both countries, Jess Sweetser will be making his first start in major competition since he won the British amateur in 1926, beating Jones and the flower of two hemispheres. Sweetser's appearance alone guarantees the event to be a real championship, granting that his health will permit him to make the fight which his game is notable Evans, Outin, Johnston, Knipper, Guilford and others of the old guard will be there, too. Likewise the rising young men of the pastime, Voigt, Findlay, Homans, Mackenzie, Watts Gunn, John Dawson, Held and McCarthy.

There can be only one result. The man who wins this year will indeed be champion of this country.

Mushball Players Anxious To Start

Lehigh And Post Office Latest Teams To Accept Places In New Loop

The New Castle Mushball League will hop off on Monday night, August 5th, according to announcement today.

There will be eight teams in the new circuit: The News, Tin Mill, Lehigh Cement, Post Office, New Castle Bankers, Haney Furniture Company, Firemen and Phalanx.

A complete schedule of the league for another round of play is being arranged by Alec Samuels, the energetic South Side boy who is co-operating with "Bugs" Walther in the formation of the league.

Two fields will be used, Colonial and Lehigh.

There are two kinds of men: those who continue to wear knickers and those who have seen kodak pictures of themselves in knickers.

Manager Black Denies Protest

Italian A. A. Manager Very Much Upset By Reports He Will Protest

By "BUGS."

Manager Alec Black of the Italian A. A. baseball team was very much upset last evening shortly after The New Castle News reached the streets. The popular and hard-working manager of the Italian A. A. team had the following to say in conversation with the writer, and Black was excited.

"Say Mr. Walther, who authorized that report that I was going to protest the Pennys' offer of my team on Wednesday night?"

"I don't know Alec, all that I received at the office on Thursday was a report that you would appeal to the league officials for justification."

"Well, you tell the fans of Lawrence county for me, that Black wins his games on the ball field, not on the commission's office."

Will Not Protest.

The writer knew that Alec was very sincere in this statement.

"You can say for me that no protest is going to be filed by me and I don't sanction a protest from any other person connected with the Italian A. A. team."

"Maybe Noite did error in calling that game too soon, it was still light enough to play but the game was called and that is all there is to it."

Black will stick to the umpire's ruling. It meant the breaking up of a fine winning streak but Alec will abide by the ruling.

"I want the fans to know that we are out to win ball games that I have instilled a fighting spirit into the players, but we don't cry over spilled milk, we will take our defeat gracefully," said Black as a parting remark.

With managers the type of Alec Black at the head of the Lawrence County League teams the league is bound to thrive. His fine record with the Italian A. A. to date speaks for itself. The Italians record won quite a lot of ball games. They should win the second half of the league race and if they do Black will put a fighting team on the field against the Pennys.

Cascade To Play All-Star Team

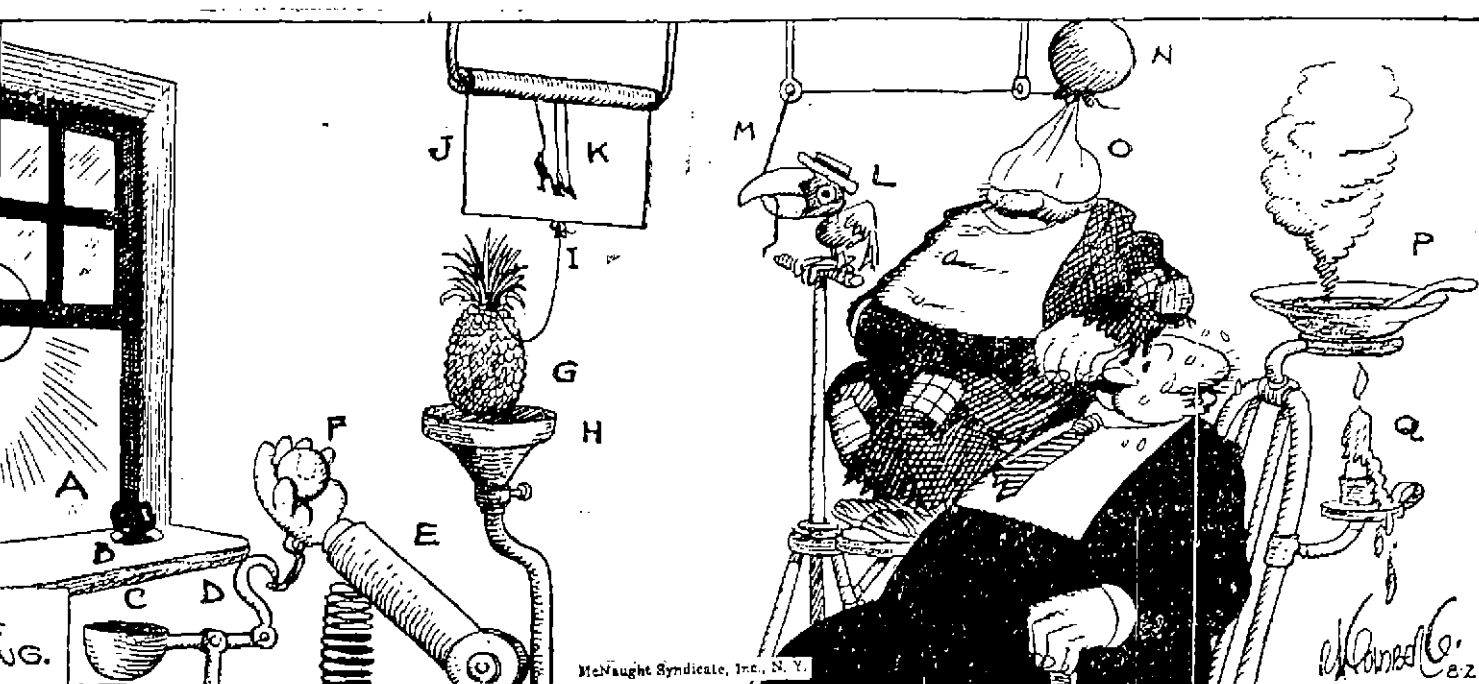

The Cascade A. C. of the City-County League will play the All-Stars tonight, at 8:30 o'clock, at the Cascade Park field. On Saturday the Cascade A. C. team plays the West Pittsburg club in a City-County League battle. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Tilden Davis Cup Mark, 16 Victories In Singles, Should Stand Long Time

Big Bill Tilden.

By WILLIAM RITT, Central Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—William Tecumseh Tilden II, whose name is now being consigned to the Valhalla of international tennis to a hallowed niche in the record book's hall of fame where his shadow may keep company with the wreaths of the bygone great, may rest reasonably assured that none will come in after years to top the record he set in 10 years of international net warfare.

Tilden had no predecessor in international tennis, who even approximated his playing stature. And in view of his 16 singles victories in Davis cup challenge round play it is fairly safe to say that none will come who can surpass his record.

Tilden won 13 consecutive Davis cup challenge round single matches, his string being broken in 1926 by Rene Lacoste of France. Tilden being handicapped at the time by a weak knee Tilden lost but four Davis cup matches, one each in 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929. But he also scored a triumph in each of these years.

In his six international doubles matches Big Bill was victorious four times, giving him a life Davis cup record of 20 victories to six defeats.

Johnston Nearest.
Only Little Bill Johnston, for many years a teammate came anywhere near Big Bill's singles record. Johnston won 11 times before he slowed up. Rene Lacoste whom many thought would become the equal of Big Bill had won but four singles matches when he quit.

Other great Davis cup stars fell away below Tilden when victories are counted. The great Norman Brookes of Australia stopped at nine, Hugh Doherty of England could not add to his eight wins and the current champion of international tennis, Henri Cochet has only won five international singles matches.

Great as he is, Cochet is still 11 victories short of Big Bill's mark and it is a pretty safe bet that he will never reach it.

The passing of Big Bill from international tennis—he has announced this is his last year in cup play—takes from tennis its greatest knight whose lance was but a hoop of wood webbed by strings of catgut and whose charger consisted of just his own fleet sure feet.

Tilden's marvelous Davis cup record giving score by sets:

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

There will be no boxing show at Jolly hotel, Monday night at the writer could not see Ray Alvis, manager of Tony Herrera to accept any opponent for Herrera who was likely to give him a good fight. Rather than put in a weak show the hotel will be dark. Tony is good but his real ability will not be known until he fights someone who can give him a thorough testing.

Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world will carry his three year old crown into Harmon's ring at Chicago tonight and will have to defend it against Tony Canzoneri in a 10 round bout. Twenty thousand fans will see the fight and the gate receipts will range around $140,000. The champion is a two to one favorite.

Bernard Friedman, captain elect, West Philadelphia high school, won the Pennsylvania state boys' tennis championship when he defeated Harry Hunter Lott, Jr., of Lower Merion high, 8-2, 6-0 in the finals at the Cynwyd club courts, Philadelphia.

Ken Penner, pitcher for the Indianapolis, A. A. team has been sold to the Chicago Cubs, now leading the National League pennant race. Chicago gave a cash consideration and pitcher Claude Jonard to Indianapolis. Penner has won 13 and lost five games this year.

Railroaders Are Gaining Ground

Two straight victories for the Pennys team in the Lawrence County League, has elevated them to fifth place in the league standing. The P. R. R. boys had a long siege in the cellar.

The Italians are still leading the league by a comfortable margin, with five victories and one setback. The Bessemer, Wampum and Slovak teams are tied for second place with a .500 average. The Pennys team stands fifth, and Hillsville brings up the rear.

The standing of the league to date:

	W	L	Pct.
Italians	5	1	.833
Bessemer	4	4	.500
Wampum	3	3	.500
Slovak	3	3	.500
Pennys	2	4	.333
Hillsville	1	3	.250

Mathewson spread his 372 victories over seventeen years, while Alexander started in eighteen years ago just as Young was retiring.

The pennant race remains unchanged in the National League this morning, as all the first division teams won. Jess Petty of the Pirates came to life and turned in his first full game the season at Forbes field, beating the Phillies 3 to 1, thanks to Gomorovsky's triple off Harold Elliott, a rookie, with the bases loaded.

Athletics stretch lead. Gray Bush of the Cubs has won fifteen games against only one defeat.

"See here," said the angry visitor to the reporter, "what do you mean by inserting the derisive expression 'Applause' in parentheses in my speech."

"Applause! Great Scott, man, I wrote 'Applause'!"

Alexander Equals Mathewson's Record

By LES CONKLIN, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Grover Cleveland Alexander will be shooting at a new record of total victories for a Simon-pure National League pitcher the next afternoon he ambles to the mound. By beating Brooklyn yesterday, 5 to 2, while the endurance fliers, Jackson and O'Brien, looked on, the grand old man of baseball, performed an endurance feat on his own hook when he tied Christy Mathewson's record of 372 victories.

The Cardinal veteran, now 42, has no chance of approaching the record of Cy Young, who compiled 511 victories in 22 years of both National and American League pitching. But if such ancients as Red Faber and Jack Quinn can cheat Father Time year after year, it is barely possible that Old Pete may eclipse Walter John's American League record of 456 games won.

Slovaks Defeat Wampum 11 To 2

The Slovaks handed the Wampum team a licking 11 to 2 in a game played at the Clifton Flats field on Thursday night. The addition of Byak and Augustine added strength to the Slovak lineup. The Slovaks found the pitching of Braky and Powell to their liking and hammered out 13 hits. In the first inning the Slovaks hammered out six runs and in the third came back with four more tallies. A. Mehalic had the "Indian sign" on Wampum, giving up six hits. Braky, A. Mehalic and R. Buchelle had triples. Byak having a pair of them. Pans, Fundoots and Mash had doubles. On Saturday the Slovaks meet the P. R. R. at the E. & A. field. Next Wednesday the Bessemer team plays at the Flats field and next Friday the Slovaks meet the I. A. A. team at the Flats field.

Italians Thump Hillsville 13-0

Houston On Mound For Italians Allow Hillsville But Three Safe Hits

EARL FEATURES WITH HOME RUN

The Italian A. A. started another winning streak last night at Hillsville, by thumping the Hillsville boys 13 to 0, in a Lawrence County League engagement. Houston on the hill for the Italians pitched a brilliant game. The Hillsville team had but three safe hits off Houston. The Italians found Riley easy to solve in the first three innings, and scored all of their thirteen runs. Riley held the Italians to one hit after the third inning. One of the outstanding features of the battle was the home run drive by Earl in the third inning with the sacks populated with runners. Earl also had a triple. The fielding of General and Rodgers was bright, these boys making some fine catches throughout the game. Pepe was the big fielding star for Hillsville. It was the fifth victory for the Italians, and but one setback in the league second-half.

Pirates Snap Out Of Slump

Revamped Lineup Turns In Three To One Victory Over Phils

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2.—The Pirates leaped out of their slump yesterday to present the Phillies with a three to one defeat. Petty pitched a great game and allowed only six hits. Elliott hurled six seasons, went out for a pinch hitter and Collins finished the game for Philadelphia. The Braves were dumped at Chicago and the Cubs still possess a five game edge. The Pirate lineup was shifted around. Shely was out and Paul Waner played first and Brickell filled right field. Hamsley went behind the plate, and Adams was lead off man. Brickell fifth, Barclay seventh, and Clarke next to last. Hamsley got two hits.

Now they say the Versailles treaty is a good one, after all. It must be, when the nations can enforce it with a mere 40 per cent increase in armament.

After Another Title

Unless another postponement occurs, this is unlikely a great lightweight championship bout will be fought tonight in Chicago between the wily title-holder Sammy Mandell and Tony Canzoneri who at present is the leading contender for that historic crown.

Every real boxing fan is familiar with Champion Mandell's record and unquestioned class. Not since Benny Leonard was in his prime has the lightweight division had such a master ringman as its chief. Sammy Cauro, 2, will be a strong favorite to retain his title tonight—many feeling sure that he will give the contender a thorough boxing lesson throughout the scheduled ten rounds.

Canzoneri's friends however have the strongest hunch that Tony will surprise the fancy and end Mandell's reign. He has the speed they believe to catch the ghostly-gliding champ and the punch to stop him. And he's proved to perfection for this big chance despite a few unfavorable criticisms of his recent victories in stiff tune-up bouts with Ignacio Fernandez and Phil McGraw whom Tony trounced with ease. Canzoneri sustained a bad cut near one of his eyes during a collision with McGraw's head but it is reported as healing well at this writing. Those who are playing the "short end" tonight are doing so with the belief that the contender will be in the very pink following those tune-up bouts whereas the champion has done but little since breaking his collar bone in an affair with Jimmy Goodrich last September. However re-

He weighed 136 1/4 pounds after the Wednesday workout, and was close to 135 after toiling for a half hour yesterday in heavy woolen trunks and a sweat shirt. Sammy did no boxing, but he rehearsed vigorously with the skipping rope, on the light and heavy bags and displayed dazzling speed and agility in two rounds of shadow boxing.

Mandell Is Fast Canzoneri never saw the day he was as fast as the champion was yesterday. Sweating off his last pound of hard flesh brought Mandell down so far that the drying-out process did not have to be severe. Sammy had been in training nearly three weeks. Good as he is, though, Sammy doesn't figure to be a 3-to-1 favorite over the miniature Babe Ruth, who won't lose tonight for not trying. No challenger of Canzoneri's proved capabilities is that far outclassed by a champion. But Tony will be facing a great champion tonight. Mandell is just beginning to be appreciated in Chicago, where he won his title and tonight is defending it here for the first time.

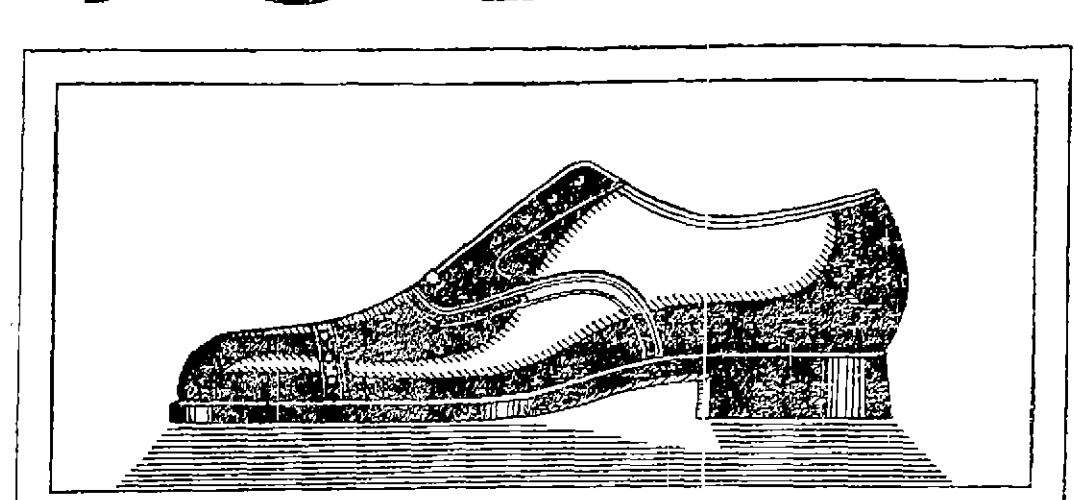

The betting on tonight's match is simply a reflection of the general sentiment that Mandell is the greater champion than Canzoneri is a challenger. The odds are mounting because there is little Canzoneri money showing.

Japan's Census To Count Idle Intellectuals

(International News Service) TOKYO, Aug. 2.—A detailed survey of unemployed intellectuals will be made in connection with the regular national census a year from this fall, it is reported. The census, which will be taken in October, 1930, will not be confined to the number of residents in Empire, but will include a side report on the unemployed. The unemployment situation has during the past few years, proved alarming to the Home Ministry. Some means to rectify this condition is essential, the bureau officials are quoted in the vernacular press as stating and the Privy Council has asked the Home Ministry to make a report on the matter. Unable to give that body an immediate reply which would prove satisfactory to it, the Social Affairs Bureau continues the Social Affairs Bureau answered that a side-census would be taken in connection with the regular census. The percentage of unemployed has steadily risen in Japan, and is now as palpable as the lateral of a friend's stage. Statistics show that only 27 per cent of those seeking employment are able to secure it. The remaining 73 per cent remain without an honest income, and, according to experts on the matter, are considered a menace to society. Emigration, which has hitherto proved to be ineffective in relieving the situation, is considered as worthless. From the standpoint of those in office, the most alarming feature of the situation is that so many of the unemployed are "unintelligents" when they believe to be far more dangerous to the state than the ordinary coolies out of work.

Gotham's Latest Fad Is Garden On Skyscrapers

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Gardens in the sky are the newest fad in New York. The towering apartment houses that are being built by the dozens in the residential section nearly all provide terraces that can be turned into cases of cool green and gay flower colors, while the penthouses perched atop some of the business skyscrapers offer an even broader opportunity for decorative gardening.

Designers have depended more on formal ornament than growing things for their picturesque effects. Bronze sculptures, pools and fountains and colored the pavements, ably assisted by a few plants in pots that may be removed and replaced readily, provide a setting that does not require constant care, and that will retain its appeal in the winter.

Metal Gardens

There are even a few modernist gardens whose vines and flowers are all of metal, fashioned in the weird angles of the modern mode.

So insistent has been the demand for bronze sculptures that wall look at home in a town or country garden setting that sculptors have been making larger models, life size in many instances, of the pieces that formerly were used mainly for decorative effects in the house.

Most sky-garden owners will not be content with purely formal ornament, and will want to have plenty of growing things around. Experience has shown that not only will small plants grow in pots and boxes, but a great many large shrubs and even some types of trees will flourish happily in unbelievably small amounts of each.

Not Much Soil

Twelve inches of soil is enough for Rhododendrons, Forsythia and Privet, provided it is well fertilized and changed frequently. Wisteria can be induced to cover a wall that begins fifteen stories above ground quite successfully.

Bright awnings and vivid wicker furniture are usually part of the sky-garden picture.

William F. Cutler's apartment in New York has an out-door setting in striking modern style, with the walls painted turquoise blue and the brown lacquered reed furniture standing on orange colored material. Potted shrubs convey the garden thought.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

The available supply of filet mignon in Ellwood City is low today. Must be down near the vanishing point for after the number and size of filets disposed of Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce dinner at the Field Club, there couldn't be any left.

In color they ran to the usual shades of brown. In number about 150, and as to size, about nine of them would have made a good sized cow. The filet I had was so large that it crowded the peas and french fries off the plate.

It was an unusual sort of dinner. The Chamber of Commerce and its right and left bower, the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs held it for the industries and anyone who had a chance to attend it and missed, was just disappointing himself.

They have a new club house on the golf course now, and you couldn't ask for a much prettier setting. It is high enough on a hill to give you a splendid view, and far enough from the lake that you can't hear the swearing when a player drops his ball in. The course never looked better and steak never tasted better. All together I'm glad I went.

George Muse went down along and he and General Martin fought the Spanish American war over again. That's the nice part of that war. It can be warmed over again and again. This week is the anniversary of the Battle of Manila and the number of Spaniards killed last night was terrible.

The tag on the car was Ohio. And hung on to the license plate was a membership plate of the Butler, Pa. Motor Club. Now what I want to know is where did the owner of the car live. If he lived in Ohio, why the Butler motor club plate? And vice versa.

The Sportsmen's Association is holding another meeting tonight to further the plans for the ox roast and dedication of the Game Farm out near Harlansburg. By all means don't miss this. Any time you get a chance to attend a real old fashioned barbecue and miss it, it is your own fault.

Outside of Lawrence County the sportsmen think as much of that game farm as we do. Of all the counties in Pennsylvania, Lawrence is one of two having such a place, and ours is for the entire western end of the state. When the date is announced for the dedication, plan to be there.

Richards To Keep Street In Condition

Rushed Work In North Street To Accommodate City, Council Told

Howard Richards, New Castle water company, and council today conferred relative to the replacing of brick in North street where the company laid a water line.

Council admitted that Richards had helped the city by rushing in the work.

The city proposed to repave North street between East street and Ne-shannock avenue.

Two sewers were also to be put in. Richards rushed the water company's reinforcement program and got his work through.

The city has now discovered there is a conspicuous absence of sufficient funds for the repaving and sewers. Today they looked at the replacement of brick in a different light and the matter was put up to Councilman Lewis and Richards.

It is probable that Richards will be asked to keep the street in traveling condition until the city can do its share.
